WIFE AND NOTE SIGNED "MOSIE" DROOKER

Mrs. Lena Drooker (above) claims 150 love notes "hot enough to start a fire" from the Boston man who seeks to have their marriage annuled on grounds he was forced into it. She now threatens to sue his father, a Boston merchant, for alienation of affections. In the extract above "Mosses" promises "Sweetness, I mean wifey," "plenty of kisses."

Behold a few excerpts of Mosie Drooker's "hot enough to start a fire" letters to pretty Lena Winthrop Drooker, Fitchburg heiress, whom he wants to discard as his wife by annulling their marriage:

"You drew a picture of me and made my neck long like a giraffe's. But it was long because I'm hungry for your kisses. My lips on yours, Lena. Oh, boy!"

"I don't want you to go on any wild parties. I want you to finish your schooling and then I'm going to settle down and look out for you."

"You're my tootsy-wootsy sweetness and I'm sending you a kiss imported from Mosie's lips. Here goes —X!"

FITCHBURG "LOVE NEST."

"Just think of our getting married—oh, Lena."

"I guess you don't like the Fitchburg fellows any too well and it's lucky for me you don't."

"Some day you're going to see your Moses land down in Fitchburg for good with a nice little flat in the

Judge Springs "Ford Joke" on Actor Up for Speeding

Cleveland, July 21.—Wallace Ford, an actor, in court for speeding, said he was hurrying to rehearsal.

"What if you had been late?" asked Judge Addams.

"A fine of $25 from the stage director," answered Ford.

"Any Ford jokes in the show?"

"I'm the only one."

"Well," said the judge. "I don't want you to miss anything. (Aside to clerk). Fifteen and costs—$24.60."

The Judge handed Ford a copy of the traffic rules remarking: "That's your part for next week."

Pole vault, S. S. Schollp, Yale.

Wembly Stadium, London, July 21.—Before a gathering of 130,000 persons, H. M. Abrahams, lasr year robbed of his 100-yards dash victory at the Harvard Stadium international meet, accomplished deep and lasting revenge upon his Yankee rivals when in today's Harvard-Yale-Oxford-Cambridge meet at Wembly Stadium, he scored three first places, and proved the big factor in the Britishers' great victory.

The meet throughout was a see-saw affair, with first the combined Harvard-Yale team in the lead, and then the Oxford-Cambridge array in front. It ended finally with the score—first places only counting—Oxford-Cambridge, six and one-half; Harvard-Yale, five and one-half.

It was R. J. Dickinson's ability to tie R. D. Geroudi of Harvard in the high jump that figured in splitting of the point which gave the British collegians the victory.

Abrahams' great work came in capturing the 100-yards and 220-yards dashes and the running broad jump. He handily defeated Yale stars in each of the three events—beating Comins and Rusnak of Yale in the dashes and Comins of the Elis in the broad jump.

Those Elis were not the only Americans to fall below expectations. Billy Burke, the Harvard captain, finished a poor second in the 440-yards run and Tommy Campbell, the Eli leader, was shut out entirely.

THIRD FIRE IN FACTORY PROBED

Ten Young Women and Six Men Flee Blaze Near Waterfront

Ten young women and six men were forced to flee a fire in a factory building at Nos. 76 and 78 Batterymarch street today.

It was the third time in three months the building was ablaze.

An investigation is under way.

So thick and poisonous were the fumes from the blaze in the factory loft firemen wore gas masks to fight the flames from fire escapes.

Girl employes of the telephone company at No. 50 Oliver street crowded windows and some ran into the street when a report of an operators strike riot was circulated.

The building is occupied by the Taylor Machine Company and the George T. Johnson paper towel company.

The loft where the blaze started was said to be unoccupied.

The fire was discovered by James Lowe, employed in the Johnson company. He notified the office help, ten young women, who ran into the street. Men employes followed, also the workers in the machine company.

Firemen fought the fire for two hours before it was extinguished with a loss estimated at $10,000.

Mystery surrounds what would

CONFINED AS INSANE IN ASYLUM

Erwin F. Wilson, Once Pardoned by Wilson, Figures in Another Escapade

Erwin F. Wilson of Brookline made a daring escape today from the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Fairview, Pa.

A posse of armed guards is in pursuit.

Erwin F. Wilson.

Wilson has led a hectic career, coming into prominence on several occasions. In 1918, while serving five years in the Federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., for impersonating an army officer and passing bad checks, he frustrated a wholesale jail delivery. President Wilson pardoned him.

Two years later he was indicted in Philadelphia on charges of burglary and assault and for carrying concealed weapons. At a lunacy hearing his mother testified that he had been normal and a loving son until injured while in the Army Air Service at San Antonio, Tex. He was declared insane and placed in the institution from which he fled today.

Wilson, according to police records, married Gladys Nason of Brookline only to marry again at New London, Ct., without taking the trouble to step into divorce courts. On trial in

POLICE FIND BODY OF MAN FLOATING IN THE HARBOR

The body of a man was found floating off the bulkhead at Jeffries Point, Boston Harbor, by the police boat Watchman's crew today. The man wore a blue serge suit, two pairs of trousers, white cotton outing shirt with collar attached, dark four-in-hand tie, white cotton socks and black shoes. He was five feet, eleven inches in height and weighed about 175 pounds.

EDITOR GETS 6 MONTHS FOR CALLING LEGION MEN 'BUMS'

Chicago, July 21, (I.N.S.)—Arthur Lorenz, former editor of the Illinois Staatz Zeitung, today was sentenced to serve six months in Bridewell for libelling the American Legion.

"The American Legion has been tried and not found wanting," said Judge Hugo Pam in sentencing Lorenz. "It assures this country continuance as a world power."

Lorenz was accused of having written an editorial calling members of the Legion "tramps," "vagabonds" and "bums."

FINED $10 FOR HITTING BOY OF 9 WITH A WHIP

It costs $10 to hit a youngster with a whip. So Samuel Katz, iceman of Dorchester, learned in the Municipal Court today.

Katz struck Hyman Eastman, nine years old, of No. 384 Harrison avenue, South End, as the latter approached his horse. Two youngsters, Minnie Mazer, twelve, of No. 221 Dover street, and Edith Pitofsky, ten, of No. 51 Geneses street, called the matter to the attention of Officer James Nelson, who investigated.

Katz at first denied striking the youngster, but later admitted it and said the lad was annoying his horse.

LENA MADE MOSIE DROOKER HUNGRY FOR HER KISSES

WARNS HER OF WILD PARTIES

Crescent Apartments for Lena and me. It's lucky for you I haven't begun to really kiss you yet because when I do I'll kiss you to death."

"Some fellows have a sweetheart in every town, but not Moses. Your brother Maurice thinks it's best of me to stay in the store and learn the business instead of going out on the road. Maybe I had better. It's about time I settled down now, anyway."

"I just think about you all the time, Lena. I wish you'd call me up at the American House (in Fitchburg) tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock just so I could hear your voice."

KISS YOU TO DEATH.

"Remember the day I met you down in Fitchburg and I told you I came from New York and I had Boston number plates on my Ford? And I gave you my name and address—remember? I remember it all."

"I am looking forward to that visit of two weeks you are going to make in Boston. You come out to my house and I'll certainly give you one good time."

"I'm going to be a bachelor all my life-uh-huh. When you talk about getting married, I certainly get thrilled. When I see you, I'm going to jump at you and kiss you to death. I hate to send kisses on paper but I'll sure give you the real kind when I get down to Fitchburg."

Drooker is the son of a wealthy Boston dry goods merchant. He lives at No. 35 Hawatha road, Mattapan.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON.

He seeks annulment of his marriage to winsome Lena on the grounds that he was "too young to have acted rationally." They eloped to New York, but Lena charges that "her Mosie" left her a week after they wed.

Today at her Fitchburg home at No. 44 Boutelle street the young wife who termed Mosie's letters "hot enough to start a fire" threatened to sue her father-in-law for alienating her boy husband's affections.

It has been revealed since the marital difficulty that Drooker the elder has not spoken to his wife for nine years.

"He needn't think he can persuade his son to do such things," said Lena.

WOMAN ASSERTS CHIEF WHIPPED HER

Lumberton, N. C., July 21.—The case in which three men are standing trial here on charges growing out of the flogging of two white women near Proctorville last April by a robed and hooded band of eighteen men went to the jury today at the conclusion of arguments.

Mrs. Mary Watson, one of the women whipped, testified that her husband, Samuel Watson, a Proctorville policeman, "and his Klan" were responsible. She testified that B. M. Lowson, Fairmont chief of police, one of the defendants, swung the strap across the backs of herself and Mrs. Hattie Purvis.

WOMEN DEMAND EQUALITY IN U. S. SERVICE

Seneca Falls, N. Y., July 21.—I.N.S.)—Women holding government positions no longer believe that men have vested rights in the high places in the government service, declared Miss Laura Berrien, chairman of the government workers' council at the business session today of the National Women's Party convention.

"Time is evidenced," said Miss Berrien, "by the response of women in all ranks of service to call for the organization of the government workers' council of the National Women's Party and by the adoption of a platform demanding:

"1—That all examinations in the Civil service shall be open to women on equal terms with men, that a single register shall be kept of men and women, from which appointments are made in the order of rating, regardless of sex, and that no one register shall be opened until the previous register is exhausted.

"2—That women shall no longer be excluded from executive, administrative and high-salaried positions and that there shall be no discrimination against women in appointments, assignments, title, promotions or salary.

"3—That there shall be a special board or committee in every subdivision of each department and independent organization in which women shall have equal representation with men, to fix salaries and to pass on all reclassifications, administrative appointments, assignments, ratings, promotions, demotions, transfers and dismissals.

"4—That there shall be no discriminations against women because of marriage.

"Women receive their just share of appointments to the lower grades, but they suffer the greatest injustice that is to be met with in that having passed the same tests as men they are not permitted to take higher places by promotion," said Miss Berrien.

MUSIC FROM AUTO SURPRISES CROWDS

Pedestrians in Boston streets today gazed in amazement at an Oakland business man's coupe when there came from the automobile a burst of band music followed by a vocal solo.

Traffic was impeded by theorists who finally learned from W. H. Sawyer of the Boston Oakland company that C. R. Dunbar, who is a radio expert as well as an automobile genius, had secreted five radio tubes and other radio equipment in the machine.

The prediction has been made that this will mark a revolution in the manufacture of automobiles soon and that all garages and cars will be equipped so that in case of mishap it will be possible to get in touch with the nearest repair shop by radio.

SERIOUS LANDSLIDE IN PANAMA CANAL

Los Angeles, Calif., July 21 (I.N.S.)—That a serious land slide had taken place in the Panama Canal was being investigated today by shipping men.

The report was wireless to several ship owning concerns by masters of oil tankers in the vicinity of the canal. The ship masters do not report the canal as being locked, but sought instructions as to what action to take in the event of such an occurrence.

3 Cats in West End Cut Mortal Coil in Hot Wave

Suffering cats!

Three of 'em. And all three were added to the total of heat prostrations today. All were of the West End.

"What will this heat wave do next?" asks Captain McDevitt of Station 3, who investigated the feline catastrophes and pronounced death in each instance due to arteria sclerosis aggravated by intense heat.

One collapsed near the steps of the Joy street station, another at 91 Brighton street and the third at the rear of 15 Irving street.

"Never heard of such a thing before," muttered the captain, as he concluded the post mortem examination.

CROWDS SEE FAT MAN SAVED AT NANTASKET

Daniel O'Heam of No. 344 Granite street, Quincy, rescued an unidentified man, weighing more than 250 pounds, from drowning off White Head, Nantasket Beach, in full view of hundreds of bathers. The stranger, who, witnesses said, was intoxicated, departed in the automobile of a friend immediately after the rescue before the police could obtain his name. Young O'Hearn collapsed on the beach after he brought the stout man safely to the shore. He was removed to the Sturgis Hospital, suffering from immersion and exposure.

Telegraph Briefs

Portland, Ore.—Entrance of the United States into the League of Nations and participation in the proposed permanent court of International Justice were endorsed in resolutions adopted by the American Association of University Women at the closing session.

New York—Rev. Cyril W. Emmet, dean of University College, Oxford, England, is seriously ill of pneumonia at St. Luke's Hospital. He has been serving as special preacher at St. Bartholomew's Church.

Los Angeles—James J. Jeffries, former champion pugilist, who was to have spoken at a meeting in the Women's Christian Temperance Union Temple, did not talk, but sat on the platform. Jeffries later said he did not intend to become a minister, although he may deliver lectures. His father was a clergyman.

Jersey City — Senator Edwards was cheered by 200 members of the National Editorial Association as "The next President of the United States" when he delivered an address to the editors.

Montreal—The jury trying the Rev. Father Adelo Delorme for the murder of his half-brother, Raoul Delorme, is expected to receive the case today.

COURT GOES TO CHINAMAN'S FOR EVIDENCE

On the width of a counter in Charlie Young's laundry at No. 376 Cambridge street, Allston, hinges Judge Connelly's finding as to whether or not Charlie was guilty of assault on Patrolman Costello.

Costello says Charlie swung a mean fist when he tried to smooth an argument between Charlie and one of his customers.

Charlie says the officer was wrong, that the counter was so wide he couldn't strike across it.

Unable to decide in the face of so much contradictory testimony, Judge Connelly and Court Officer Desmond went to the laundry today.

"Give us some string," ordered the judge.

Then he and Desmond measured the distance and carefully tucked the string in an official pocket.

The judge then had Desmond stand in the position where Costello had stood and ordered Young to stand in a leaning position back of his counter. More measurements were made. The judge then left.

The decision will be made known Tuesday.

LUCILLE ADAMS WEDS MORRIS W. REYNOLDS

Lucille Adams, the ingenue of the Boston Stock Company, which plays at the St. James Theatre, is now honeymooning with Morris Walter Reynolds. They were married yesterday at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York. The bride was given away in marriage by Robert Sparks, the manager of the theatre, and Mrs. Sparks (Ruth Garland), was Lucille's only attendant. Mr. and Mrs. Adams will spend a good part of the Summer at the Sparks' Summer home at Hull. The bride is widely known in this city. Reynolds is a graduate of Cornell, class of 1917. He was an aviation captain during the war.

ORANGEMEN PROTEST VISIT OF KING GEORGE TO VATICAN

Winnipeg, July 21.—(Int.)—David Ness, of Winnipeg, Glasgow, Scotland, today appealed to the 120 voting delegates of the Imperial Grand Orange Council of the World, to demand the immediate recall of the British envoy to the Vatican, who he said was "as useless as his predecessor was in the years of the Great War." It was high time that the British government was brought to book on the subject, he declared.

Orangemen all over the world, said Rev. Mr. Ness, were incensed at the recent visit of King George and Queen Mary to Rome, and "these are not the days in which constitutional safeguards should be flouted."

ANDERSON, DRY LEADER, IS PROMISED AN EARLY TRIAL

H. Anderson, State superintendent of the anti-saloon league indicted by a grand jury for grand larceny and forgery, can go on trial within twenty-four hours if he chooses, Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Jecora said today.

"We are ready to go on trial as soon as Mr. Anderson wishes to be accommodated," said Mr. Pecora. "If he expresses no desire on that score, we shall do everything possible to expedite his trial."

Anderson was "taking a rest today and not issuing any more statements for the present," according to his secretary, and could not be reached for comment. Anderson, the secretary also said, had received no official notification from the assistant district attorney that the State was ready to give a speedy trial, or that the date was for him to choose.

PHONE STRIKE DEADLOCK IS REACHED

The telephone operators' strike is at a deadlock. Almost without exception, the striking locals refuse to return to work until a decisive victory is won, or until the company agrees to reinstate the girls on a pre-strike basis.

Officials of the telephone company are adamant in their stand that in leaving the employ of the company the operators lost all seniority rights.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS.

Miss Julia S. O'Connor, president of the striking operators; P. Harry Jennings, business agent of the Boston Central Labor Union; Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and Edward F. McGrady, personal representative of Samuel P. Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, conferred behind closed doors at strike headquarters.

None of the conferees would make a statement relative to the purpose, or the result of the conference. It will be continued today.

CONFERENCE HELD.

Representatives of the striking operators, headed by Miss Julia S. O'Connor, conferred with officials of the telephone company in the offices of the company, in an alleged attempt to effect a settlement of the strike.

Miss O'Connor refused to comment on the conference. George H. Dresser, general manager of the company and E. W. Longley, vice-president, who attended the conference, said it had caused no change in the situation, and issued the following statement:

"The statement made by the company Thursday morning as to the terms on which it will take back such striking operators as may be re-employed was not questioned, but the operators desired to inquire as to certain matters of procedure in carrying its provisions into effect.

TERMS UNCHANGED.

"The general manager gave his views as to the general policy which should govern in these matters.

"The statement of the company which outlined these terms for re-employment of striking operators has not been modified in any particular."

Salem reports the number of operators on duty is within two of normal.

Lawrence strikers are picketing with renewed vigor. It is alleged noisy and insulting remarks were made. The police did not interfere.

Milford strikers voted to end the strike if the telephone company would reinstate the strikers en masse, without loss of priority or discrimination against union operators. Their terms were rejected.

TAG DAY IN LYNN.

Woonsocket and Lynn operators are having a tag day today to raise funds for the continuance of the present service, with no report of strike. Lynn reports badly crippled improvement since the strike began. Picketing in Lynn is going on as usual.

Springfield strikers resumed picketing following word that the Regional Council in Boston had refused to abandon the strike. Eleven strikers are said to have applied to the company for reinstatement in Springfield, within the past twenty-four hours, according to a statement of the company.

The Boston strikers held a mass meeting at Lorimer Hall at which Miss O'Connor, the only speaker, told of the latest details in the company's plan for taking back the operators.

BLAME GUNMEN FOR "HERRIN MASSACRE"

Springfield, Ill., July 21 (AP).—"The ugly countenance of the American gunman" was today blamed for the "Herrin calamity," in a brief filed by President Frank Farrington of the Illinois Mine Workers, with the United States Coal Commission, in answer to that filed by the National Coal Association. This is the first formal expression from the miners' president regarding Herrin.

For proof, he offers a letter from Sherman Holman, "one of the so-called guards employed by the Hargrave Detective Agency, to Holman's divorced wife, Mrs. Fay Kuntz of Marion, Ill. It says in part:

"No doubt you will be surprised to learn I am down here with a gang of moonshiners. Ha! Ha! but the moonshine is Winchester rifles and field guns. We have two planted on the dam reservoir; two on the cook and sleeping cars, and six on top of the hills. They only shoot 600 shots apiece a minute. There are also 100 guards with Winchester rifles that shoot three miles. As long as they stay three miles away they will be safe.

"But Heaven help them if they ever start in one mining company property."

The brief concludes:

"There was a terrible holocaust at Herrin. Union men were killed. Neither side was free from blame. But can it be said that less blame was his who, urged by the hope of unreasonable profits, deliberately courted trouble by bringing an armed band of men whose antecedents were not of the best, reckless men, willing to take their lives in their hands, into a peaceful community?"

MALDEN FAMILY EVICTED, NOW IN TENTS

Down at the Point of Pines there is pitched a fodest tent. It is serving as a home for Henry Warren and his wife and heir eleven children. And it isn't big enough.

Henry and his family have nothing in their tent. Not a stick of furniture nor a drinking cup.

They do not like it but then—it is better than nothing.

Phillip Levine, Henry's former landlord, drew him and his family out of the house at No. 146 Bryant street, Malden. Henry didn't have a job and he didn't have any money.

He had to get along the best he could with nothing and twelve hungry dependents. So he borrowed a tent.

If it should rain some one of the Niles would probably have to get wet for the tent is so small. So Henry plodded around all afternoon in the heat seeking another auxiliary tent.

He asked Adjutant General Jesse F. Stevens if the State would lend him one, but the A. G. said that all of the tents he owned by the Commonwealth were in use. Not one could be spared.

So Henry stepped over to the Red Cross and that organization very promptly sent him to the Family Welfare Society, where he was given a promise of help.

Meanwhile he went to the Commission on the Necessaries of Life and Bernard Scanlon, the secretary, started right out to dig up at least one more tent. He was successful.

ELOPER FLEES ASYLUM

Providence where he was facing charges brought against him he made a daring escape.

Wilson has had several aliases among them Ralph Crompton and Edward Crompton.

While in Federal prison Wilson notified the authorities of a plan of a number of prisoners to escape in packing boxes. The plan was permitted to develop and the prisoners were found in the boxes were leaving the prison in the boxes.

For this he was pardoned by the governor, and the records, according to police records here, a long line of offenses in different parts of the country.

He was arrested in Providence, R. I., on a charge of stealing a motor car and broke out of the court room when his trial was about to begin. He fled to Jacksonville, Fla., and then turned up in Doylestown, Pa., where he jumped out of a window when the police tried to get him, raced to Philadelphia, where he robbed a drug store, and drove to Burlington, a suburb, where he was caught in a garage.

He pleaded guilty to four indictments, but before he was sentenced he was declared insane and sent to Pairview. This week the county court here signed an order returning him to Philadelphia as sane.

GIRLS WHO ESCAPED BLAZE

cause three fires in three months in an unoccupied loft, although spontaneous combustion among oil soaked waste has been given as the reason.

One Fireman Hurt, 30 Escape, as Floor Drops

One fireman was injured and twenty others narrowly escaped being hurt when the three upper floors of the five-story brick building at Nos. 374-394 Congress street, South Boston, formerly occupied by the Fairbanks Scale Company and the Thompson-Kelley Army Goods Company, collapsed, following the fire there Wednesday. The men had been detailed to play on the smouldering ruins.

David Murray of Ladder Company 9 was painfully injured about the legs by falling debris, and was trapped on the fourth floor.

Following the fire, the roof gave way and rested on the fifth floor. Without warning, that floor later collapsed, and the weight of the debris carried down the fourth and third floors.

Captain Mahoney, in charge of the twenty-one firemen who were playing hose on the smouldering ruins, sent in a rescue call to five headquarters.

Chief Taber and Deputy Chief Shallow were with the men who responded to the rescue call. Chief Taber immediately ordered a roll call to learn if any other firemen were in the ruins.

London.—Further desertions from the ranks of idle dock workers today are believed to have broken the back of the strike. London and Hull are the only ports now affected by the walkout.

TURKS HOLD UP TREATY WITH AMERICA

Lausanne, July 21 (AP).—Repeated conferences between Joseph C. Grew, American Minister to Switzerland, and Ismet Pasha, Turkish Foreign Minister, and between the American and Turkish experts do not appear to have advanced the settlement of the disputed points in the proposed Turco-American treaty. The Turks are continuing to manifest the same inflexible attitude that they showed toward the Allies.

The Americans evidently have no intention of being hurried into the signing of a convention which in their view does not properly safeguard America's legitimate interests.

The scheme for control of the Turkish straits will be incorporated in the American treaty by a clause assuring to United States merchantmen and warships privileges equal to those accorded any other nation. Without entering into the details of the straits regime, this will give the United States all the privileges of the straits convention which will be signed by the European States, including Russia, and insure free passage for at least three American cruisers to and from the Black Sea.

Some of the News
Irish Idle
Lord Dawson
And Dr. Kerley

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1923, by Star Company)

IN THE DAY'S NEWS you learn that: The Prince of Wales changes his clothes four times in five hours. He telegraphs expressing deep regret at being unable to witness the fight between two young Jewish gentlemen, named Leonard and Tendler, competing for the championship. Millions know them that never heard of Spinoza or read a line of him.

AN AMERICAN lady in London, Mrs. Pattern, of Illinois, wears a tight apple green satin dress, small turban to match and "paints her legs" instead of wearing stockings. It is cool and it surprises London.

FRANCISCO VILLA, famous Mexican leader and former bandit, is dead, killed in a local fight. The news says so, but, like Trotzky and Lenin, Villa has been killed often. You may find him alive and well tomorrow.

MR. ANDERSON, head of the Anti-Saloon League in New York, an active fighter for prohibition, is indicted by a Grand Jury. Five bills are returned against him, charging forgery and extortion. Anderson says he is pursued by villains on account of his virtue. Prohibition friends say persecution will make him a saint. Another jury will decide that.

THE IRISH FREE STATE is worried by unemployment. Sixty-two thousand men are idle, 12,000 political prisoners will soon increase their number, and reducing the army will add 20,000 more. This country could use them all and would be glad to get them. But solemn lawmakers refuse to admit the immigration that the country needs.

THE KING'S DOCTOR, Lord Dawson, tells the House of Commons that alcohol increases happiness. It is a "balancer" of human nature and the human body. Alcohol, says this doctor, gives the tired, over-worked brain the relaxation that it needs. The American brain must get along without it or drink bootleg, and that does NOT increase happiness.

DR. C. G. KERLEY, greatest children's specialist in the country and a thorough scientist, gives these warnings that mothers and fathers should keep in their minds:

Do not exploit or overwork mentally an unusually intelligent child.

Don't allow such a child to be made the plaything and amusement of an entire family. When you compel the child to respond to questions, keeping its mind abnormally active, you waste energy that should be used in building up the child's physical strength.

The greater a child's intelligence, the less should be the stirring up of its brain.

THE "ANTIQUE BUG" has bitten Henry Ford. He is buying Early American things for the "Wayside Inn," recently purchased, and for his house in Florida.

The same "bug" bit John D. Rockefeller, Jr., some years ago, and started him to buying the best things to be had. It's a useful antique bug, bringing here things that the country needs.

Henry Ford will go through the usual stages, buying "Tanagras" made in Manchester, and antiques fresh from the factories of ingenious Armenians in New York.

A THIEF steals the bone of St. Martin from an ancient church in Paris, a relic that has performed miraculous cures. The thief thinks possession will keep him in good health. But will it? Does such a relic cure, by inherent virtue and in spite of itself, or in each case does the dead saint exercise an effort of the will? The probability is that the thief will be disappointed.

GUSTAVE, son of Sweden's King was to marry Lady Louise Mountbatten. Her father, Prince of Battenburg, gave up his title at the request of King George, who has an official horror of German names—though his family is German. Thus Battenburg became a "private man." The King of Sweden says his son cannot marry a "private man's" daughter.

Napoleon Bonaparte would enjoy that. The King of Sweden descends from Jean Baptiste Jules Bernadotte, son of a little lawyer living at Pau in France. Jean Baptiste enlisted as a private, worked his way up, became a marshal under Bonaparte, and, with the latter's permission, was chosen King of Sweden in 1810.

If the descendant of Private Jean Baptiste cannot marry the daughter of Private Mountbatten, that shows how easily royalty learns to take itself seriously.

DID YOU EVER hear of William Holabird? He died yesterday in Chicago, after a life far more useful to the world than the lives of many men widely advertised.

William Holabird was the architect and engineer, that originated the skeleton type of building, that made possible modern skyscrapers and the modern city. William Holabird was one of the builders of civilization.

WINS IN PLEA FOR VISITS BY 'DADDY'

BARBARA TAYLOR

COURT GRANTS CHILD'S PLEA TO SEE DAD

"I want you, Daddy."

Barbara Taylor is a bright girl for her six years and she asserted her little self very positively today as she sat on the steps of her mother's home at No. 29 South street, Waltham, and looked longingly up the street toward her daddy's house.

"I love my daddy," she said plaintively.

Her daddy, W. Royce Taylor, and her mother, Marion Avis Taylor, have been separated since June, 1921, when Mrs. Taylor obtained a divorce on grounds of cruelty and abuse.

It was Taylor's day in court yesterday, however, when Judge McLaughlin ordered the mother to let the father see his child every Wednesday evening, Sunday afternoons and all day Thanksgiving Day.

Taylor had complained to the court that his wife refused to let him see the child alone or to take her on little pleasure trips.

A member of the faculty at a Waltham private school that Barbara attends testified that when Barbara received a card from her father asking her to write, the little girl tearfully cried, "I love daddy." Mrs. Taylor prevented her from writing, the teacher testified.

"I love my mother, too," Barbara told a reporter today. "But I don't see daddy very much and I want to see him more. He always treats me nice."

Taylor lives at No. 8 Common street, Waltham.

SLASHES WIFE WITH RAZOR BECAUSE SHE LEFT HIM

Helen Parcilla, just turned nineteen, turned a deaf ear to the entreaties of her husband Frank to return to the little flat a No. 109 Linden street, East Boston.

"Nothing stirring, kid," she told him and went straightaway to her lawyer's office to discuss the divorce case due to come up in September.

Frank brooded over Helen's actions and grew bitter, so when she came down the street he drew his razor across her cheeks and cursed her, the police say. The cutting was in front of many witnesses on Decatur street, East Boston.

Frank was held in bail of $2,000 today when arraigned in court.

SUFFRAGETTES IN TURKEY TO MARCH UPON ANGORA

Constantinople, July 21.—(I.N.S.)—Turkey's woman suffragists, no longer hampered by the veil and harem, are arriving here preparatory to a march upon Angora when the Nationalist assembly opens.

The women's movement in Turkey is similar to that fostered in the United States by the national woman's party under the leadership of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

Unlike the American movement, the Turkish suffragists are well organized, though not of the militant type. They have not advanced women far in public office—yet. However, women frequently have received complimentary votes, particularly the leaders of the feminist campaign.

FINE 78 OF ADRIATIC'S CREW $10 EACH FOR WALKOUT

Liverpool, July 21.—Seventy-eight members of the crew of the White Star Liner Adriatic were fined $10 each today by a magistrate after conviction on charges of conspiring to impede the ship's voyage before leaving New York by walking out and demanding a bonus.

$6,691 LOOT AWARDED PHONE CO.

Men Acquitted of the Payroll Holdup Fail to Make Claim for Cash

Even though the jury freed Herbert Shaughnessy and Edward F. Wallace of the charge of robbing Peter Gaddis, New England Telephone Company paymaster, of $20,000, neither will get any part of the $6,691.97 found in their possession when they were arrested.

This money, most of which was stored in a vault in the Merchants National Bank in Worcester was today turned over to the company by Captain Charles Searles of the police department.

One of the strange factors in this remarkable case was the positive identification of a portion of the money as the property of the company by a Federal National Bank official.

A buffalo head marking and serial numbers of bills made it possible for the banker-witness to state without hesitation that the money had been sent from his bank to the First National Bank and thence to the telephone office.

The company, naturally, expected to get the money as soon as the trial ended, but when the jury discharged the defendants the question of ownership became perplexing.

Captain Searles brought a bill in equity to determine the issue, but when Wallace and Shaughnessy and their counsel failed to make a legal move for which this was sought, drawn and arrangements made to pay the money to the phone company.

MASKED GUNMEN HOLD UP AUTOIST

A masked bandit threat pieced in the face of W. J. Colleton of Waltham today near Kendrick's bridge, Needham, then robbed him of his gold watch and wallet containing many valuable papers and some cash.

Colleton was heading over his automobile, which had stalled, when the bandit leaped out of the bushes and commanded his victim to "stick up" his hands.

After looting Colleton's pockets the gunman backed into the bushes warning his victim to remain where he was or be shot.

Somewhat later Colleton telephoned a report of the robbery to the Needham police. He could give only a meager description of the bandit.

MRS. LEWIS SHIELDS SUSPECT

Will Leave Country Rather Than Take the Stand Against Mansolilli

Mrs. Grace Lewis of Chelsea, recipient of three bombs through the mails recently, alleged to have been sent by Louis Mansolilli, her former sweetheart, declares she will decline to appear against the optician.

Coincident with Mrs. Lewis' announcement, Cleo Fragopulos, a roomer at her house, No. 192 Shurtleff street, Chelsea, has received an anonymous letter ordering him to leave town.

Mrs. Lewis, seated by the Boston American after she had sought seclusion, declared she would go to jail before she would appear against Dr. Mansolilli.

PROMPTED BY FEAR.

Asked if it was fear or love that prompted her refusal to prosecute Dr. Mansolilli, Mrs. Lewis indicated it is the former. He often carried guns and a razor, she declared, and many times threatened her.

"He threatened many times to mar my looks so that no man could love me as he did," she declared.

"However," she continued, "under no conditions will I ever appear against him. I will leave the country before I will testify against him. If they succeed in finding me to serve me with a summons, I will go to jail before I will appear against Dr. Mansolilli."

The letter ordering Fragopulos from town has been turned over to Federal authorities who are investigating the bomb cases.

Dr. Louis Mansolilli, former sweetheart of Mrs. Lewis has declared that Fragopulos is a sweetheart of Mrs. Lewis. Both Fragopulos and Mrs. Lewis deny this assertion. The authorities have announced they will question the optician in connection with the letter.

The letter was received by Fragopulos, who with a brother conducts a candy store in Bellingham square, Chelsea, on the morning after Dr. Mansolilli gave himself up to the authorities. The contents of the letter follow:

"Cleo Fragopulos, Chelsea, Mass. "You must leave Chelsea within seven days and No. 192 Shurtleff street forever."

The authorities are watching the mail of Fragopulos, fearing an attempt may be made on his life by mailing explosives to him as in the case of Mrs. Lewis.

ASSISTANT DEAN OF HARVARD WEDS

Miss Rose Dunbar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison Dunbar of No. 84 Highland street, Cambridge, was married to Edward Randolph Gay, assistant dean of Harvard and son of Randolph Gay, president of the New York Evening Post, and Mrs. Gay, in the Unitarian Church at Northeast Harbor, Me., where the bride's parents have a summer home.

SURGEON'S KNIFE TOO ACTIVE, SHE SAYS

MISS EDITH THORNBERRY.

Westland avenue girl, who has brought suit for $20,000 against Dr. H. W. Irvine, claiming the surgeon, who performed an operation for appendicitis, removed other vital organs without her knowledge or consent.

BACK BAY GIRL SUES DOCTOR FOR $20,000

Alleging that through improper medical treatment she has been robbed of the right of motherhood, Miss Edith Thornberry, attractive twenty-seven-year-old girl of No. 32 Westland avenue, Back Bay, has filed suit in Suffolk County Court for $25,000 against Dr. H. W. Irving of No. 1069 Boylston street, prominent Back Bay specialist.

Miss Thornberry declares that after an operation for appendicitis performed by Dr. Commonwealth Avenue Hospital No. 618 Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, on February 25, 1922, she submitted to an examination by three other physicians and learned other vital organs had been removed during the operation.

The girl's aunt, Mrs. Mary Harrington, with whom she lives, fears that Miss Thornberry's mind may become affected as a result of the operation. She declares that she is now a shadow of her former self.

Miss Thornberry is at present vacationing at Nantasket with her aunt.

Two other physicians assisted at the operation. Attorney John Louis Sheehan of No. 60 State street appears for Miss Thornberry.

SIX SALESMEN LOSE STOCK LICENSE

The licenses of six stock salesmen were revoked by the State Department of Public Utilities today.

All of them had failed to notify the State of changes of their headquarters or of the identity of the brokers for whom they intended to sell stock to the public.

The six are: John F. Melanson, No. 21 State street; Charles R. Johnson, No. 126 Federal street and Gerald C. Kattin, No. 209 Devonshire street, Boston; William J. Benahy of Lowell, Roland T. Lafless of Methuen and R. F. Armisage of Leicester.

The following corporations, which were among the 205 ordered to sell no more of their stock here because of their failure to furnish adequate information of their financial status, were restored to good order by the Department today: Merchants and Manufacturers Exchanges of New York, Atlantic Acceptance Corporation of Massachusetts Vortex Carburetor Company and Federated Engineers Development Company.

NO OFFICIAL ARMY HONORS FOR VILLA

Mexico City, July 21 (AP).—President Obregon's plan to accord full military honors to the funeral of the slain Francisco Villa, former rebel chieftain, will not be carried out, it is announced at the war department, because Villa was not carried upon the official military rolls of the government.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH BY KETTLE OF HOT SOUP

Three-year-old Billy Mack smelled soup cooking on the stove while playing in the kitchen of his home, No. 116 Williams street, Chelsea.

Billy liked soup. The pungent aroma made him hungry. He reached up for the kettle. One chubby fist caught hold of the side.

Screams of pain alarmed his mother, Mrs Sadie Mack, returning from the corner store.

She found Billy writhing on the floor in a pool of soup. The overturned kettle alongside told the story.

Today the child died of his burns after great suffering at Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

WAVERING ON DIVORCE ACTION

Admits It Looks as Though It Has Lost Its Punch

Paris, July 21 (I.N.S.)—"I've got to keep Bob guessing," Irene Castle Treman said today as she boarded the boat train to Havre to sail for New York on the French liner Lafayette.

The dancer was accompanied by her niece and her pet goat. All, including the goat, occupied the same compartment on the two train.

Her uncertain husband, Robert Treman, wealthy Ithaca, N. Y., manufacturer, Billy Reardon, her dancing partner, and the International News Service correspondent composed the small delegation that saw her off.

"What about the divorce?" she was asked.

"It looked as if it had lost its punch, doesn't it?" she said.

CAN PATCH IT UP.

"But I can't tell you because Bob would hear and I've got to keep him guessing more."

But Treman apparently didn't want to do any more guessing than was absolutely necessary and put questions of his own.

Irene confessed she honestly didn't know what she was going to do about it.

She hadn't seen her lawyer in three weeks, she said.

"But," she told her husband, "if it's granted and I decide I don't want it, all I have to do is write the judge a letter within sixty days and tell him so. Then everything will be all right."

As the train gave evidence of preparing to leave, Irene relented somewhat. As Treman stood on the train steps she confided she was sorry she hadn't waited and sailed with him on the Majestic, leaving next week.

RELENTS STILL MORE.

She would have postponed sailing, she said, but the French line would not cancel her reservation on the Lafayette.

As the train made starting noises Irene relented still more. She kissed her husband warmly several times. She remained on the platform waving to him.

"Good bye, darling," she called back. "I'll meet you on the dock at New York."

It was learned, however, that Treman yesterday did his bit to make the divorce road smooth by writing the letter, necessary to all French divorces, stating he had refused to return to his wife and live with her.

From an intimate friend it was learned that the Ithaca millionaire is anxious to settle the whole matter once and for all. He was said to be tiring of the uncertainty of Irene's intentions and no longer willing to play the role of a faithful husband—always at the beck and call of a capricious wife and not knowing whether his answer to the beck and call will net him a smile or a frown.

SWISS CAPITAL TO REPAY U. S. $6,000,000

Berne, Switzerland, July 21.—The Municipal Council of Berne has decided to repay at the earliest possible date the $6,000,000 loan at 8 per cent. obtained in the United States in 1920 and repayable in 1925. It will be replaced by a loan at a lower rate of interest, issued in Switzerland.

CHELSEA COBBLER FIGHTS TO SAVE FAMILY FROM DEPORTATION

SEPARATED FOR TEN YEARS

Wife and Six Children Arrive in U. S. After Russian Quota Is Filled

Joseph Matusoff of Chelsea, a cobbler whose wife and six children have been ordered deported after a ten years' struggle to get them here from Russia, has filed an appeal with E. J. Henning, First Assistant Secretary of Labor.

Matusoff, who came to this country ten years ago, opened a shop in Malden and later moved to Chelsea. He did well in business and was about to send for his family when the war broke out.

The cobbler then lost all trace of his wife and children, but when Russia became more or less peaceful he renewed his search.

A few months ago Matusoff's efforts were crowned with success and he immediately made arrangements for the family to join him here. They arrived in New York July 16 after the Russian quota had been filled, and were sent to Ellis Island for deportation.

Matusoff filed an appeal asking that an exception be made in view of the fact that he had been separated from his family for so long.

Mrs. Clark Prominent in North Shore Who's News, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

ALWAYS a distinctive looking picture is Mrs. Francis Haven Clark, whose good looks and smart clothes make her a prominent member of the Nahant colony. Another addition to our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

Mrs. Clark—she's very tall and slim and of purest blonde type—was formerly Miss Frances Sturgis, daughter of Mrs. Russell Sturgis of Marlboro street. She comes of a large family of sisters, the latter including Mrs. Sidney Archer Lord (Anne Sturgis), who now makes her home at Nashawtuc Hill, out Concord way; Mrs. George Clymer (Susan W. Sturgis) of Bay State road, Mrs. Theodore Scudder (Carolyn Sturgis) of Cambridge, as well as the late Mrs. Andrew Hepburn.

In the Winter time Mr. and Mrs. Clarge make their home here in town on Hereford street. This Summer they have leased the Tom Pelham Curtis place on Swallows' Cave road. It will be remembered that it was at this cottage that the all-important reception was held following the ceremonial which transformed the stately and blonde-haired Clarissa Curtis into Princess Michael Cantacuzene, the affair taking place three Junes ago. Only a few weeks ago Princess Clarissa paid a visit to Nahant as the guest of her parents before going on to Chicago, where she and Prince Michael are to make their home for the time being.

It is hard to realize that this old-time Frances Sturgis is the mother of two little daughters, Anne Lindsay Clark, who boasts of six Summers, and Sally Poor Clark, just three years old. For this attractive matron is not only exceptionally youthful looking, but the smartness of her apparel usually makes her the cynosure of many eyes wherever she goes. Needless to say, she is much to the fore in the activities of her set.

MRS. FRANCIS STANTON BLAKE has returned to these shores following a lengthy sojourn abroad, stopping off a few days in New York at the Ritz before coming on to the Hub.

LLEWELLYN HOWLAND of Brookline has been spending some time at the Ambassador in Atlantic City.

THE PHILIP STOCKTONS and their young family have returned to "Highcliffe," their Summer places at Manchester-by-the-Sea, after concluding their usual sojourn at Westport, N. Y.

Mrs. Stockton, who has lovely golden hair, was among those helping at the annual fair at St. John's Church, Beverly Farms.

THE George M. Cushings, whose Winter home is in Milton, are settled for the season at their Beverly Farms place.

MRS. FRANCIS H. CLARK
Prominence in the Nahant colony entitles her to a place in our "Who's News Along the North Shore." Mrs. Clark was formerly Miss Frances Sturgis.

'TWAS THE CAT'S MEOW ALL RIGHT

Gus Sharry is one of the four Sharrys who do police duty for Somerville.

Gus stood at Broadway and Rush street, East Somerville, today and heard the mewing of a cat.

Gus looked about. No cat.

"Meow."

Gus looked again.

No cat.

Once more Gus wrinkled his seventeen-and-a-half collar. No cat.

Gus is a plain cop. That is, he has no high ideas. He doesn't believe in ghosts, never having pinched one, but a cat's meow is a cat's meow, and no arguments.

So Gus pulled a fingerful of spongy collar from his Adam's apple and tried to "kid" himself that his hair wasn't actually standing up.

"Meow."

Gus moved and frowned. It was getting uncanny.

No cat, but a cat's meow.

A bachelor drifted by and Gus whistled. "Yes, We Have No Bananas," and endeavored to look nonchalant.

"Meow." Gus went sour on the last five notes.

"Meow." Gus' helmet went up three inches, then flopped back on his skull.

"Meow." Gus shivered.

"Meow." Gus moved.

"Meow-w-w-w-w," and Gus had it.

He looked into something behind him, then telephoned his boss.

"Send the wagon to the postoffice," said Gus, "and get an inspector."

Ten minutes later a perspiring postal official was opening a United States package mail box. From its fat interior he hauled forth a sad-faced cat. Was it male?

It was.

JILTS WEALTHY HUSBAND AND ELOPES

New York, July 21—His young wife jilted him and eloped to Paris with an obscure dentist a month ago, Edward W. Browning, millionaire society man, charges in divorce papers filed in Supreme Court.

"I showered jewels and money on Nelly. She had everything wealth could buy and I loved her faithfully," Brown said through his attorney, Herman J. White. "Today there is nothing left but ashes of romantic fires which burned eight years for me."

The chilman and son of the late president of Browning, King & Co., is forty-five years old; his pretty wife, thirty-one and the "other man" twenty-nine.

The millionaire's affidavit, in substance, says:

SAILS ON OLYMPIC.

"Mrs. Browning disappeared from her sumptuous home, 25 West Eighty-first street, on June 30, last, and, under an assumed name—Mrs. H. J. Wolcher—sailed that afternoon for Europe on the steamship Olympic. Also on the ship was Charles W. Wilen a dentist, who had offices at 1,706 Clinton avenue, Bronx. The couple, now living as Mr. and Mrs. Wolcher at the Imperial Hotel, Paris, are leading a wild and gay life in cabarets and at the race track.

"Mrs. Browning had no reason to run away with that man," Browning's attorney said. "Her action stunned Mr. Browning. It was only after much detective work and identification by a picture that he was thoroughly convinced."

NEVER MET DENTIST.

Browning says that he never met Wilen, who is described as athletic and possessor of a winning smile. "Yes, his wife mentioned the dentist's name once," he said, "but he never thought it significant."

Incidentally, according to Browning, his wife has a large independent income—a birthday present which he gave her three years ago.

Two girls were adopted by the Brownings in 1919, one, curly-haired Majorie, eight years old, also disappeared June 30, with Mrs. Browning, who is believed to have left her in custody of a friend here.

Browning is considered one of the wealthiest realty operators in the country. He married in 1915.

Now 'Cutting Up"

Pretty wife of New York millionaire realty operator, who eloped to Europe with smiling dentist, her husband alleges. She has a large income—from a birthday present from him three years ago and he says she is leading a wild life in Paris.

HARDING WON'T CALL EXTRA SESSION

On Board the U. S. S. Henderson With President Harding, July 21—(By A.P.)—President Harding, it can be declared, positively, has no intention of calling Congress into session in advance of its regular meeting in December.

While he has made no direct statement, those among his party on his tour of Alaska who reflect his views say that he has no idea of heeding a demand for an extra session made by Senator Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa. Those close to the President don't agree with Brookhart that relief legislation is now needed for the farmers.

Associates of the President say he feels that there is little or no need for an immediate assembling of Congress and furthermore that the leaders in Congress, in common with the public generally, believe that the country is benefitting by the current recess of Congress.

The President and Mrs. Harding and their party are en route from Cordova to Sitka, where they expect to arrive tomorrow for an all-day visit, before bidding farewell to Alaska.

The President was enthralled by the massive ice cliffs of Child's Glacier. Just as the President was leaving, a great mass of ice broke away and plunging into the river sent the waters ashore like a tidal wave.

"One of the most impressive sights to be seen in Alaska," was the way the President described the glacier as he boarded the train for Cordova.

SEIZE RUM RUNNER; BIG HAUL OF BOOZE

New London, July 21.—Police swooped down on a gang of rum-runners near Fort Trumbull today, confiscated 780 gallons of alcohol and thirty cases of whiskey mostly imported brands. James F. Shumado was arrested. The remainder of the gang escaped.

HARDING'S OLDEST RELATIVE IS DEAD

Worthington, O., July 21 (I.N.S.)—Mrs. Clara Van Kirk Mitchell, 95, an aunt of President Harding, and his oldest relative, is dead at the home of Dr. George R. Harding, brother of the president.

MAINE COPS SEEK YALE HOCKEY STAR

York Harbor, Me., July 21.—Alleging that the captain of the Yale hockey team took the sands of Long Beach for an automobile race course, Special Officer John McCarthy swore out a warrant for the arrest of Fergus Reid, Jr., as the millionaire collegian sailed for a year's study in Europe. According to McCarthy an hour-

URGE U. S. AID WOMEN HELD IN IRISH JAILS

Montreal, July 21.—Alleging that 2,000 women are being detained in the jails in Ireland under the most unsanitary conditions, the Ladies Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, at their closing session here, passed a resolution urging the government of the United States to make an investigation for some measure of relief.

MALDEN BUSES BANNED BY GOODWIN

Three of the big auto buses operated by Joseph Hart between Malden and Revere Beach were stopped today by Frank A. Goodwin, the State Registrar of Motor Vehicles.

Goodwin revoked their licenses on the ground their brakes were defective.

"The owner of these buses had no right to permit them on the road," said Goodwin.

"Large numbers of passengers are carried by him. They must be protected from accidents."

Hart operates a fleet of big buses which have been a storm centre in Malden for years. They took thousands of passengers away from the Elevated and Eastern Massachusetts. The Elevated refused to operate some of its short lines in Malden unless the city officials drove Hart off these streets. The city officials complied.

Hart declared he had the best equipped buses in America. He never suffered an accident, he asserted. He charged that the Elevated and Eastern Massachusetts were engaged in a move to drive him out of business.

Since being deprived of his short-haul business in Malden, Hart has operated the big buses between Malden and the adjacent towns and the beach.

NOTED PHYSICIAN DIES IN BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., July 21 (I.N.S.)—Dr. John H. Pryor, one of the foremost tuberculosis authorities of this country, died suddenly at the family home here.

The cause of death was given as heart failure. Dr. Pryor was sixty-two years old.

HIT BY FREIGHT CAR, WORKER BADLY HURT

While working as a yardman in New Haven railroad yards on Congress street, Michael J. Sweeney, 60 years old, of No. 3 Bullard street, Dorchester, was knocked down by a freight car. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where it was stated he was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull. There also are lacerations on his head and arms.

HOOD'S Temptation Ice Cream Brick

What can compare with this frozen delicacy? A layer of Hood's old fashioned ice cream, laden with the juice of golden, tree-ripened oranges—a layer of ever-popular vanilla and a layer of "chocolaty" chocolate. Truly, Hood's Temptation Brick is worthy of its name.

Mothers need not hesitate to give their little ones plenty of Hood's Ice Cream. Its purity is guarded as carefully as though it were made in your own kitchen—and its smooth, velvety, creamy consistency tells the seventy-seven-year-old story of superiority.

MORE FREE GIFTS FOR NEXT TUESDAY'S MOTHERS' OUTING

4,500 GET TICKETS FOR TRIP

All tickets for next Tuesday's outing are sold. There is no come back, no chance for late comers.

The pasteboards are all in the hands of mothers or children who are waiting impatiently for the "All aboard" and the screech of the big whistle as the beautiful Nantasket boats glide away from Rowe's Wharf on their glorious sail for Nantasket Beach.

ANOTHER TRIP NEXT WEEK.

Those who got their tickets are to be congratulated. Those who are disappointed this time, have next week to look forward to.

The great demand for tickets to this series of boat trips has staggered the officials of this newspaper. No such demand for tickets has ever been known.

The trips were intended for Greater Boston. We are getting letters and personal calls from people who live fifty miles and farther from the Hub.

THERE IS NO QUESTION OF DOUBT IN OUR MINDS THAT WE COULD CHARTER THE WHOLE NANTASKET FLEET, FILL UP TO THE GUNWALES AND THEN HAVE DISAPPOINTED ONES—IF WE COULD GET THE BOATS.

READY FOR SAILING.

We are all ready now for the sailings of next Tuesday, July 24th. All that we want is fair weather, bright sunshine and—guess that's all. MUST be. Everything else is sealed, signed and delivered.

For the sake of those who are in doubt, the boats leave next Tuesday as follows:

Leave Boston (Rowe's Wharf) 9:00 A. M., 9:30 A. M., 11:00 A. M.

Leave Nantasket Wharf 3:30 P. M., 4:15 P. M., 5:30 P. M.

IMPORTANT: No one, under any condition, will be permitted to board any boat, at either starting point, except that boat called for on their ticket.

The following named organizations have promised to be with us again next Tuesday and their promise is as good as their bond.

The RED CROSS NURSES. Ready at a moments notice to minister to the needs of grown ups and little ones, to advise apprehensive mothers and to demonstrate.

The BERWICK CAKE COMPANY sends us word that they will have a greater and more varied treat for everyone than on previous trips. They are ENTHUSIASTIC. Mable Cake, Monica Cake, Walnut Cake—that only starts it. Watch for Berry and Wrekle the "Berwick Twins."

H. P. HOOD & SONS will see that every kiddie will have his or her bottle of cool, refreshing pasteurized (absolutely pure, rich) milk. How the kids did rumble over themselves to get that treat last Tuesday. It was a sight.

PARAGON PARK manager telephones that he is ready for everybody who shows up and the big, well-known park is sure to have some new FREE surprises for the children. They sure "came across" last Tuesday.

PLENTY OF BALLOONS.

BALLOONS FOR EVERYBODY. Jack Quealey has promised them. You remember Mr. Quealey if you went last week. He gave out about a million of those soul-decrying "squawkers." Evidently the great Pioneer Rubber Company of Willard, Ohio, is behind Jack. Certainly the big crowd of kids were.

SAGAMORE BATH HOUSES are making a name for themselves with the thousands of mothers and children. Thousands of these good people will know where to go on occasions in the future. The genial manager and his able assistants "made good medicine" when they turned over their rooms and facilities to the Boston American's big and little friends.

H. P. HOOD & SONS have again promised to double up on their donations. The coated ice cream "Sweethearts" will go trundling down over the roof with the bottles of milk in the big Hood trucks and there will be plenty for everyone. That's where the Hood Company makes double love to thousands of mothers and young 'uns.

EVER TASTE A DELICIOUS MOXIE LOLLYPOP? If not, next Tuesday will be a red letter day in your life. Frank Archer, "Moxie's Daddy" drove up to our front door today and yelled that he was "All set on lollypops for the next trip." They are sticky but—oh gosh, ain't they good? One mother told us that when she knew there were lollypops in the "bill of fare" that she didn't try to dress the "boyeful" up for the occasion. And that kid was happy. He had nothing on him that could possibly spoil.

Three more days to the great third event. Each one of you have your own ticket where you can find it when the boat ticket man calls for it and go down to the docks for the RIGHT BOAT.

Remember, dear friends, if your ticket says you return at 4:15 it is THAT'S THE TIME AND THE BOAT YOU MUST COME BACK ON. Your ticket WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED ON ANY OTHER STEAMER.

HAYES JABS LAWYER

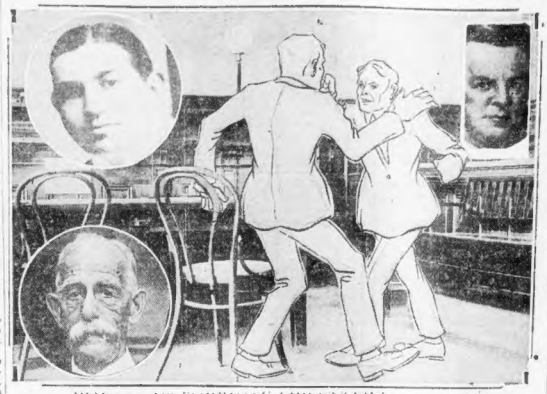

DIAGRAM OF "SHOOTING CHIEF'S" FIGHT IN SALEM

"What will Hayes do next?" This is the query among citizens of Beverly and Salem as the result of the straight-arm jab which "Lightning Jack" Hayes of Beverly landed on the point of Attorney Thomas S. Sullivan's jaw while Judge George Sears looked on in District Court in Salem. That the police chief was not punished for contempt of court is in all likelihood due to George H. Mortland, janitor of the Salem District Court building, who prompted Hayes to apologize. Inserts, bottom left, George B. Morehland; at top right, Police Chief Hayes; top left, Attorney Thomas S. Sullivan.

WHAT NEXT FOR SHOOTING JACK OF BEVERLY?

Chief of Police—One who is entrusted with the enforcement of law and order in a community

CHAPTER I.

Chief of Police John E. Hayes shoots Miss Evelyn Spinney and John E. Winston, Lynn High School students, as they pass through Beverly in an auto

CHAPTER II.

Chief of Police Hayes cusses the arrest of Fred A. Tindley, newspaper reporter, who gave forth the news of the shooting, and has him incarcerated and Danvers Insane Asylum. Tindley is subsequently released as sane, and starts $50,000 damage suit against Hayes.

CHAPTER III.

Miss Spinney starts $10,000 damage suit against Hayes and attaches his property.

CHAPTER IV.

Hayes in Salem court makes objection to something said by Attorney Thomas S. Sullivan, and scores a punch on Sullivan's jaw.

CHAPTER V.

Hayes summoned to Salem District Court Tuesday for shooting of Miss Spinney.

What will chapter VI be? Time will tell.

Watson, the Needle! Heat Is Sleuth in Burglar Hunt

Here is a case of a man charged with burglary whose arrest was due to hot weather.

The intense heat softened the tar in the roofing of the store ran by Harry Bonzanie at No. 273 Prescott street, East Boston.

So, when a burglar stepped across it his feet made imprints in the soft surface.

These were cut out by the police and fitted to the shoes of Lester Mathews, twenty-three, of No. 313 East Eagle street, East Boston.

The fit was close enough in the opinion of the judge of East Boston Court today to hold Lester in bail, of $3,000 for a later hearing.

RUSSIAN PRINCESS FREED BY SOVIETS

Moscow, July 21 (I.N.S.)—Princess Valentina Gazarino, who has been imprisoned for counter revolutionary activities, was released today on orders from the Soviet Government. She was a member of one of the oldest families of the former Russian nobility. Her release was recommended upon her promise to refrain from further revolutionary efforts.

WOMAN AT WINDOW, KILLED BY LIGHTNING

St. Johnsbury, Vt., July 21.—One woman was killed and crops were severely damaged by an electrical storm that swept northeastern Vermont. Mrs. Ellen Carpenter of St. Johnsbury was struck by a bolt of lightning when she attempted to close a window.

BRITISH ADOPT HUGHES PLAN FOR BERLIN

London, July 21 (AP).—The British note in reply to the German reparations communication has been delivered to the allied ambassadors and all members of the British cabinet have dispersed to the country for the week-end.

The latest summaries in best informed circles say the note suggests appointment of an international commission of experts to study Germany's ability to pay, as suggested by American Secretary of State Hughes; contains a suggestion to Germany that in return for cessation of passive resistance Great Britain would request France to permit recovery of German industry by reducing to a minimum the forces of occupation in the Ruhr; and expresses the purpose of finally submitting the entire reparation problem to a conference of plenipotentiaries who might meet in Brussels.

Silesian Strike Spreads; Hundreds Arrested

Berlin, July 21 (AP).—Owing to the extension of the strike of Silesian metal workers the Employers' Federation decided today on a lockout. Consequently all metal works in Breslau and Ratibor districts are at a standstill.

Hundreds of arrests have been made and several plunderers killed.

Report Captain Ehrhardt Escaped to Hungary

Berlin, July 21 (AP).—According to special newspaper dispatches from Vienna, Captain Hermann Ehrhardt, leader of the Kapp Putsch of 1920, who escaped from the prison at Leipzig July 13, has arrived in Hungary.

Note Kept Secret by French Officials

Paris, July 21 (AP).—The British note on reparations was received at the Foreign Office today.

U. S. Bankers to Probe German Assets Abroad

Paris, July 21.—Assets of Germany abroad are to be considered by the council of the International Chamber of Commerce now in session here. Information from New York indicates American bankers believe German deposits in the United States are rather small. Among those participating in the council are Willis H. Booth, Jr., and Nelson D. Jay of the Guaranty Trust Company and Fred I. Kent of the Bankers' Trust Company, all of New York.

German Prowler Slain by Sentry

Duesseldorf, July 21.—A German lighting near a French supply camp at Grefelhahn last night was shot and killed by a sentinel whose challenge was unanswered. The French authorities say the man apparently was seeking to steal lead.

Witten Pays 38,000,000 Coal Tax to Invaders

Essen, July 21.—The burgomaster of Witten has paid 38,000,000 marks to the occupational authorities as the tax upon coal used by the municipal works. He is the first German functionary to make such payment.

EVERETT MILLS TO CLOSE FOR VACATION

Lawrence, July 21.—Officials of the Everett mills announced today plans for a shut-down from August 15 to September 4 for the annual vacation period.

START INQUEST IN CROSS MURDER

Canaan, Vt., July 21.—An inquest into the death of Job Cross, wealthy farmer, whose body was found Thursday at Canaan Hill, with a bullet wound in the head, was begun today under the direction of Medical Examiner Whitney of Burlington. An autopsy was performed but the finding was not disclosed.

Cross had been missing for a week prior to the discovery of the body at a point right miles from the spot where his abandoned automobile overturned and papers were discovered.

A mortgage of $2500 which Cross held on a farm which he recently sold to Ed Bunnell of Canaan Hill was not found when the safe in the Cross home was opened. It was stated. Bunnell is being held in the lockup here charged with murder.

Living Cost a Shade Lower; Dollar Worth 62.5

New York, July 21 (I.N.S.)—The cost of living was slightly lower in June than in May, being 166.1 against 166.2. The National Industrial Conference Board today reported these findings, the figures being based on the cost of July, 1914, taken as 100.

The high point since the war was reached in July, 1920, with 204.5. The low point came in August, 1922, with 154.5.

The new war dollar, according to these figures, had a purchasing power of 62.5 cents last month, against 62 cents in August, 1922, and 49 cents in July, 1920.

3 MEN FALL 40 FEET, 1 DEAD, IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, July 21.—One man is dead, and two in a critical condition as the result of collapse of a staging when they were putting a new roof on the home of Moses Kinlich, 44 Sumner avenue, today. John DeMara of East Longmeadow, married, died after being rushed to Mercy Hospital. Daniel Melanco, of Vernon street, is dying, and Edward G. Mosier, 72, Pynchon street, West Springfield, is in a critical condition.

Both DeMara and deLozier suffered fractured skulls. Moriarty suffered a broken leg and arm and internal injuries. All dropped about 40 feet, landing on a concrete driveway.

Moriarty was pinned beneath the wreckage. The others were thrown clear.

$1,305 in Bills Lost in Fire Made Good by U. S.

Sussex, N. J., July 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Angesbach, both nearly seventy years old, have been cured of a scorn of banks which made them for many years keep their savings in a tin box on a shelf over the stove of their home.

Last April a fire which destroyed the house left a charred lump of paper where 1,305 had lain in the box. Yesterday a banker turned over to Hart a Treasury Department check for the money, issued on affidavit that the bills had been burned. Then they deposited the check in his bank.

I AM HOOD'S SWEETHEART ICE CREAM

I come from a large family—4,500 of me take the weekly (Tuesday) Boston American Mothers' and Children's Day Free Boat Ride to Nantasket.

It takes four trucks to bring us down to the boat. Two branches of my family are represented during each trip—Pineapple and Strawberry.

Soon after the trip starts, we disappear.

You'd think that was sad, but the kids enjoy us so much we don't mind a bit.

Special Fashion Cable from Paris

A cablegram just received from our Style Counselor, reads as follows:

Crepe Fluery, a crepe de chine without filling, the new fall material.

Chinese influence strongest in the original Oriental designs rather than in vivid colorings. Softened Chinese coloring, especially in beaded effects.

Silhouette unchanged; simple, straight line chemise frocks very strong. Wrap-around wide sash with knot and hanging ends, quite new. Tendency to chiffon velvet strong, especially for evening or dinner, bateau or V neck. Best shades: vivid reds, burnt orange, citron, orchid, apricot, royal blue.

Jewelry reflects Chinese influence in vivid red coral beads, earrings, bracelets and finger rings. Beads are stronger than ever in crystal effects.

Present craze is white, from head to foot, for sports and evening wear.

MARION DAVIES WINS OVATION AS NEW PICTURE IS SHOWN

Notable Folk Accord Cosmopolitan Star Highest Praise in "Little Old New York" After Unique Premiere on S. S. Leviathan

NO greater ovation was ever accorded a motion picture production than that given to Marion Davies in "Little Old New York" after its world's premiere on the S. S. Leviathan, when the giant ship of the American merchant marine made her maiden voyage to Southampton. Following this unique showing of Miss Davies' latest picture, the chief topic of conversation among the passengers was the remarkable performance of the beautiful Cosmopolitan star in the role of Patricia O'Day, the plucky Irish girl, who is the heroine of Rida Johnson Young's delightful romance.

Marion Davies

"LITTLE OLD NEW YORK" will be the opening attraction at the new and beautiful Cosmopolitan Theatre in Columbus Circle, New York, on Wednesday night, August 1st. The event will be attended by the leading representatives of society, business and art.

FOLLOWING are a few of the many praises sung for Marion Davies in "Little Old New York" by the prominent people who witnessed the first showing of the film on the S. S. Leviathan:

Albert Lasker

CAPTAIN HERBERT HARTLEY, Commander of the Leviathan: "'Little Old New York' is a most interesting and delightful photoplay, with Marion Davies simply irresistible. Both the American and European film fans will later envy the Leviathan passengers their rare treat. They enjoyed seeing it first."

ALBERT LASKER, former Chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board: "Truly a tremendous achievement. I congratulate Cosmopolitan in setting a new standard of entertainment value with 'Little Old New York.' Marion Davies deserves all praise for her brilliant performance. The American motion picture industry should be as proud of this photoplay as the nation is of the Leviathan."

VINCENT ASTOR: "No photoplay has ever thrilled or delighted me like 'Little Old New York.' Marion Davies rises to new heights as an star."

Capt. Herbert Hartley

James J. Davis
Anna Fitzu

Howard Chandler Christy

Nicholas Longworth

CONGRESSMAN NICHOLAS LONGWORTH of Ohio: "Here is a motion picture entertainment every lover of real entertainment will find wholly worth while as Mrs. Longworth and I did."

HOWARD CHANDLER CHRISTY, the celebrated artist: "'Little Old New York' surpasses anything ever screened for its sheer artistry. My congratulations to Marion Davies and the Cosmopolitan staff."

SECRETARY OF LABOR JAMES J. DAVIS: "'Little Old New York' is a gorgeous entertainment. No one will want to miss this marvelous photoplay."

ANNA FITZIU, noted opera star: "The screen version of this popular play is superb, and Marion Davies is ideal in the stellar role. Like it much better than 'When Knighthood Was in Flower.'"

Vincent Astor

Anna Fitzu

Louis Wiley

Fortune Gallo

FORTUNE GALLO, impressario of the San Carlo Opera Company: "'Little Old New York' marks a notable advance in screen achievement. Beauty, brains and talent are perfectly blended to create this masterpiece. Marion Davies, in the star role, could not be improved upon."

ALBERT KELLER, general manager of Ritz-Carlton Hotels: "After witnessing Marion Davies in 'Little Old New York' it is easy to understand why America ranks miles ahead in motion pictures."

LOUIS WILEY, business manager of the New York Times: "It is a great picture. Marion Davies does the best work of her entire career."

Mrs. Reid Devotes Life to War Against Drugs

A "Modern Joan of Arc" has sprung into prominence within the past few weeks in the person of Mrs. Wallace Reid, widow of the late screen idol. Mrs. Reid has vowed to devote her life to propaganda work for the suppression of the great drug evil and has been made chairman of the publicity committee of the Anti-Narcotic League.

Mrs. Wallace Reid

Statistics show that in Chicago alone there are 16,000 drug addicts, and among them more than 5,000 children. There are enough slaves of opiates in this country today to populate a city the size of San Francisco.

Every newspaper reader is familiar with the tragedy of Dr. Hall and they will understand Mrs. Reid's motive in devoting the balance of her active life to helping others. "Let us not condemn, but cure," will be the slogan of the league in its nation-wide drive to stamp out the evil.

Many New Features at Norumbega Park

All roads lead to Norumbega where so many new attractions have been installed this season that space forbids mentioning all. Nowhere in or around Boston are there better concerts than those given by William Dolan's popular band, now in its fourth year at the park. Madame Bergat's circus has proven the greatest outdoor free exhibit in the twenty-seven years that Norumbega has been running and after much urging the Madame was induced to cancel her other engagements and remain until August.

A summer revue, "Hello Everybody," will open an engagement of two weeks in the huge open air theatre on Monday. This lively musical show is headed by Jack Ormsby and Madeline Buckley, with John Fabrin, Frankie Lefferack, Tommy Dawson, Babe Griffin, Dorothy Collins and Frank Masters in prominent roles. Ten melody maids complete another feature.

Two photo-productions are listed for this week. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Norva Gerba will be seen in "The Yankee Go Between," and for the last half of the week Dolores Cassinelli, in "The Hidden Light," will be shown.

"The Victor" at Braves' Field

The Braves Field Night Shows under the direction of Marcus Loew, will present Herbert Rawlinson in "The Victor," next week. It is from the story, "Two Bells for Pursuit," by Gerald Beaumont and is directed by Edward Laemmle.

When the entire New World, both North and South America, seems up on its heels about the boxing game, it is significant that Marcus Loew has provided a boxing picture in "The Victor." It is this ability to give the people what they want, when they want it, that puts over all the Loew attractions. The dancing, to the tuneful melodies played by Alex Hyde and his 40-piece band, becomes more popular nightly. The surface is improved in every conceivable manner and the brilliant, rainbow lighting scene is beautiful to watch from up in the vide spreading, cool grandstand. Then, too, the climax of the night entertainments is in the fireworks, including newly constructed pieces made expressly for this big league ball park.

"The Victor" is a pre-release picture. It never has been shown elsewhere and will not be shown again in any territory until fall. And when you see Rawlinson starred in a first-run picture, you know you have a virile, rapid action, with plenty of high humorous spots to give the film the proper flavor and leave the right sort of lasting impression.

Dancer Comes From Good Revolutionary Stock

When Nathan Hale uttered that memorable sentiment about regret-ting that he had only one life to give ting that he had only one life to give to his country, and thereby established himself among war greatest Revolutionary heroes, he would doubtless have added more to the remark had he known that one of his descendants would be accomplished dancer wearing the name of Petty Hale, who is one of the bright lights of the cast of George Cohan's "The Rise of Rosie O'Reily," now holding forth at the Tremont Theatre. He would probably regret that he could not live to see his pretty descendant dance, and it would have been a most pardonable regret.

Petty Hale

But Nathan did not give Miss Betty her only claim to patriotic recognition, because her family runs back to real Mayflower stock, and for that reason she holds her head with pride. However, she reverses her ancestor's memory and flaunts the badge which betokens her membership in the D. A. R. And she is almost a New Englander, her father being a native of Salem, where the old Hale homestead still stands. But she must claim Rahway, New Jersey, as her birthplace for the most truthful reason that she was born there.

Mayo Methot, noted as one of the beauties of the Pacific Coast, whose fame long since reached the Metropolitan centres of the East, has been brought to New York by W. K. Ziegfeld to play a leading role in a feature production to be made by India Pictures Corporation. Miss Methot has played ingenue leads with the Baker Stock Company in Portland, Ore., for the past three years where she is a great favorite.

IRISH ROLES GIVE BETTER OPPORTUNITY FOR ACTING

By MARION DAVIES.

I have often been asked what sort of a screen role I liked to play best. I haven't any particular choice when it comes to playing a princess, an heiress or just a poor neglected girl such as Diana was in the first part of "The Young Diana." But when it comes to nationalities, give me the Irish. If I am given an Irish role to play I can just be my natural self. An Irish mat or an Irish girl is alternately awared by tears, tenderness and laughter. I think they live life higher and deeper than almost any other race of people. Some served actresses love to portray the fiery, sensuous Latin types and I'll admit these give a chance for some fine acting, but personally I love best to portray a warm-hearted, laughter-loving Irish colleen.

That's why I have so enjoyed playing the part of "Patricia O'Day" for my forthcoming Cosmopolitan picture, "Little Old New York," which is to open the new Cosmopolitan theatre on Columbus Circle in New York City on Aug. 1st. Coming of Irish ancestry myself, I entered with all my heart into the problems which beset poor, plucky little Patricia upon her advent into this big, strong unknown America. What person wouldn't sympathize with just a little girl suddenly torn from her peaceful home in old Ireland and set down in an utterly strange environment in a country far across the sea. Of course, I cried when "Patricia" lost her father and when her brother was buried at sea. How could I help it? Just thinking about the plight of poor "Patricia" and how I'd feel if I were in her shoes was enough to make me cry. In fact, I can't see how any one who interpreted the role could help crying.

Plays That Remain

"THE RISE OF ROSIE O'REILLY" at the Tremont. (Tenth week.) A riot of dancing, accompanied by musical comedy built on the well-known and always-engaging pattern of George M. Cohan's workshop. High speed entertainment designed to make theatregoers forget the prevailing high temperature.

* * *

"THE COVERED WAGON" at the Majestic. (Tenth week.) A James Cruze picture taken on a Utah desert, showing the trials and tragedies of the Oregon Trail of '48, when crossing the plains was a six-months' journey of thrills and dangers. Made notable by splendid photography and effective acting. Taken from the Emerson Hough novel of the same title.

* * *

HAROLD LLOYD IN "SAFETY LAST" at Tremont Temple. (Third week.) Mr. Lloyd's special brand of picture comedy embraced in a story that throws out as many thrills as laughs.

World War Battle Shown in Animated Painting

It is surprising how many people ask the question, "What is a cyclorama?" The name itself almost answers the question. "Cycle" and "Orama," a picture in a circle. That is exactly what "The Cyclorama of the Battle of Chateau Thierry" is—a picture in a circle—but not a moving picture. It is an action picture. From dawn to dusk, through the long night and into the dawn of the next day is the supposed time of this inspiring spectacle of the World War.

Randolph Hartley has joined "The Covered Wagon" as business manager, succeeding Henry McMahon, who has been transferred to the Pacific Coast.

Two Changes Weekly in Braves Field Show

The entertainment offered at Braves Field each night by Marcus Loew will be changed twice a week hereafter, on Monday and Thursday. On these days a complete new program of dance music by Alex Hyde and his fifty syncopators, fireworks and feature pictures also will be offered. Braves Field has proven itself a great success as an open air entertainment of mammoth proportions.

Sousa's Band Will Play in Symphony Hall

The tour of Sousa and his band, which begins this week, will bring that organization to Boston for two concerts in Symphony Hall on the afternoon and evening of September 16. Sousa will as usual lead the band in person, and among the novelties on his program will be a new Sousa March entitled "The Nobles of the Mystic Shrine," which is dedicated to members of that order throughout the United States.

Next Week's New Bills

B. F. KEITH'S—(Vaudeville) Harry Fox, musical comedy and motion picture star; "Blondes," a Lewis and Gordon extravaganza, with Chester Clute; Ona Munson, in a new edition of "A Manly Revue"; Herma Hogedus and Juan Reyes, violinist and pianist; Grace Hayes, a unique singer; and a half dozen other features.

LOEW'S STATE—Jane Novak in "Divorce," a picture story of the perversion of a husband with the advent of prosperity, and Katherine MacDonald in "The Woman's Side," a story of political treachery. Also news and comedy reels. Sunday concert of vaudeville and photoplays.

ORPHEUM—"Daughters of the Rich," featuring Gaston Glass, Miriam Cooper, Ethel Shannon, Ruth Clifford, Stuart Holmes and Truly Shattuck. The vaudeville headliner is Jimmy Save, a popular comedian of the screen, in "Slow Motion." Six other vaudeville acts and news and comedy reels.

MODERN AND BEACON—"The Tents of Allah," with Monte Blue and Mary Alden; and "Scandalous Tongues," featuring Enid Bennett and Fred Niblo. Also news and comedy reels.

BOSTON—"The Mysterious Witness," with Robert Gordon and Elinore Fair, with six acts of vaudeville headed by the Kelso Brothers in "The Crazy Quilt Revue."

BOWDOIN SQ.—"Dream Street," featuring Carol Dempster; "Lost and Found," with House Peters, Pauline Starke and Antonio Moreno; and "Haunted Valley," with Ruth Roland. Also vaudeville.

OLYMPIA—Douglas McLean in "The Sunshine Trail" heading the bill, with news and comedy reels and five acts of vaudeville.

CAPITOL—Milton Sills in "Environment," and Marguerite de la Motte, in "Just Like a Woman." News and comedy reels.

SCOLLAY SQ.—"Children of Jazz," a photo romance of a society girl who is jazz mad. Also news and comedy reels and seven acts of vaudeville.

TORRENCE IS VERY GOOD BAD MAN

Without asserting that this is the best possible of worlds, it is nevertheless a fact to be noted by all that the most untoward circumstances often work together in bringing good fortune to the one deserving of it. A striking example is Ernest Torrence, old scout Jackson in "The Covered Wagon" at the Majestic.

Ernest Torrence

Mr. Torrence, a veteran musical comedian, thought 'twas pretty tough when Hollywood consigned him exclusively to heavy villainous roles on his first entry into that singular movie colony. Yes, he was terrible as the savage mountaineer in "Tol'able David"—his wife broke down and cried when she saw him in it. Sheer brutality, horror, nothing else. But after a course of the "Covered Wagon," Mr. Torrence got a chance from the Lasky studios to play Will Jackson in the Hough adaptation. They said he could be as bad or as good as he liked—it was entirely up to him to characterize the half-wild, but at heart good natured scout. And then arose Bill Jackson, part brute, part Old Souk and part guardian angel of the oppressed, forlorn and insolute.

Wilbur Theatre Opens Season August 6

The Messrs. Shubert have made unusual preparations for the presentation of a joyous round of musical youth, "Sally, Irene and Mary," which they will produce at the Wilbur Theatre for the opening of the playhouse on Monday, August 6th. They have provided a very elaborate production, the piece being in two acts and nine scenes. "Sally, Irene and Mary" will be presented in fiction with the original New York cast. The book is by Eddie Dowling and music by J. Fred Coots. The piece was staged by Frank Gaskinson. The musical numbers were arranged by Allan K. Foster, who is put on all the dancing numbers for all the big Winter Garden productions for several years.

Sally J. Farnum, a sculptress of world-wide repute, is in Hollywood and plans to do a bronze of Strongheart, the wonder dog who stars in Trimble-Murfin productions. "The most beautiful animal it has ever been my privilege to see," declared Mrs. Farnum, when she saw Strongheart at work at the Thomas H. Ince studios on his next starring vehicle, temporarily titled "The Phantom Pack."

CRUSADE OF I. W. W. IN TEXAS FIZZLES OUT

Port Arthur, Tex., July 21 (AP).—The invasion of Port Arthur by the I. W. W., to all outward appearances, actually is off. Other than three members of the advanced guard who arrived early in the week, none of the army has arrived. The crusade has been turned back, and all preparations are going forward for calling a general marine strike.

STUDENT IS BOOZE RUNNER TO PAY FOR COLLEGE TUITION

North Adams, July 21.—Daniel Adams of Champlain, N. Y., driver of the touring car seized, together with a truck containing 1,000 bottles of Canadian ale, on the Mohawk Trial by the North Adams police, was fined $100 and given a suspended sentence of three months. Harry Jones of Pittsburgh, N. Y., fined $100 as driver of the truck, said he was a college student, took up rum running this Summer to earn money to put himself through college.

U. S. DOCTOR EXPLAINS CURE FOR DEAF

London, July 21.—Dr. Curtis H. Muncle of New York, so-called miracle man," who claims to have cured thousands of persons in America and here of deafness, will leave for Spain to attempt to cure young Prince Jamie, son of the King, who was born deaf.

The seeming miracle of making the deaf to hear is performed by a simple pressure of the eustachian tubes on either side of the throat.

The malady is often almost completely cured in a single treatment. The operation, however, must be repeated several times before the result is permanent.

An eyewitness tells of a scene in Muncle's clinic when a girl entered the room unable to hear shouted words, only to emerge a few minutes later chatting in normal tones with the physician.

When the girl entered the office she was frightened, but was finally prevailed upon to allow the doctor to examine her teeth. Dr. Muncle insists on the removal of any false teeth before he performs the operation.

The deaf girl was then put to sleep by nitrous oxide and oxygen. Dr. Muncle then opened her mouth wide, inserted his left hand into her throat and exerted a powerful leverage against the tissues on either side of the base of the tongue. The operation was over in less than a minute and the girl could then hear. "Speak to me, speak to me," she cried expectantly.

Someone made a remark.

"Oh! but I can hear you," the girl cried radiantly.

MRS. CONSTANCE MINOT.

MRS. MINOT TO BE BRIDE OF W. G. MEANS

Mrs. Constance Lodge Gardner Minot, granddaughter of Senator Lodge and daughter of the late Congressman Augustus P. Gardner, is reported engaged to William Gordon Means, prominent in the insurance world and exclusive club circles.

Mrs. Minot, described as one of the most attractive women in the exclusive North Shore society whirl, divorced her first husband, Grafton W. Minot, last Winter. She charged desertion. She shares in the care and bringing up of their children.

Mrs. Marjorie Rice Means obtained a decree from her husband in the same court, Salem, in the Fall of 1921. She obtained the custody of the children for nine months of the year and $3,600 annually.

Mrs. Minot is a member of the Vincent Club, the Sewing Circle of 1912-13 and made her debut at a ball staged at the Copley-Plaza by Senator Lodge.

Mr. Means is a Harvard man, 1906. He is a member of the Boston Athletic Association and Somerset Club.

Novena Begins Monday

The annual Summer Novena to St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus, will begin Monday at St. Mary's Church, North End.

BAN PLACED ON BATHING IN CHARLES RIVER BASIN

The Park Commission has determined there shall be no more floating bath houses in the Charles River. The river water has been considered unfit for swimming purposes since the river was dammed, and this fact finally led the commission to discontinue the floating bath which so long was located at the Charles bank. Deputy Commissioner Long made this announcement. West End children can go over to the Frog Pond on the Common to wade or swim in cleaner, cooler water, he said, and 200 shower baths have been provided in this section for accommodation of adults, some of whom are now clamoring for restoration of the floating bath house. Besides these accommodations, there are those at North End Park, not far distant from the populous West End section along Charles street.

55 MORE BAY STATE AUTOISTS LOSE LICENSES

Fifty-five more automobile operators in this State lost their right to drive when Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, revoked their licenses after they had been convicted of violating various automobile laws from drunkenness to reckless driving. This brought the week's total to 120.

$7,000 STOCK OF SOAP LOST IN CAMBRIDGE BLAZE

A three-alarm fire in Teele's soap works at No. 6 Lincoln place, Cambridge, owned by John Ames of No. 172 Hancock street, that city, destroyed a lot of soap, the loss being estimated at $7,000. The buildings were not seriously damaged. Two frame buildings, one of one-story and one of three, were damaged.

The fire, it is thought, started in the boiler room. It was discovered by a little girl, Bessie Bromfield, of No. 214 Windsor avenue. When the apparatus arrived, Deputy Chief Voss ordered a second and third alarm, owing to the fire being in the heart of a tenement district.

THE COVERED WAGON is the symbol of that dauntless spirit of American romance and adventure out of which came the vast empire of the Greater Republic.
It is this spirit which Emerson Hough brings out so clearly. "THE COVERED WAGON" is a picturization so real that his characters of those earlier days live again to thrill you with their deeds and make you proud to be descendents of such Americans.

MT. MONADNOCK TRAIL OFFERS A FINE WEEK END AUTO TOUR

SCENERY FINE ALL THE WAY

Good Roads Through Picturesque Vistas Await the Tourist and His Guests

H. E. CASEY.

The week-end motor trip published today is one noted for its variety of hilly and lake regions.

The route through Winchendon, Jaffrey and Peterboro may be familiar to some, but one will always find new places of interest to visit and nature always provides some picturesque spot that in one's haste one happened to miss.

Most of us when we take a trip are anxious to see everything at once and therefore endeavor to cram all the mileage we can into a day's trip. The too frequent result is that when we complete the trip we can tell about our long daily runs but can remember very little of what we have seen, except that the roads are all in very good condition.

Through Jaffrey, Fitzwilliam or Troy the roads are of sand and gravel, but as the writer has covered this trip it is safe to say all roads are good. It is a simple matter to get under way on this trip after you leave the Brunswick Hotel by going over to Commonwealth avenue, turning left to Massachusetts avenue, following trolley to Harvard square. Keep Massachusetts avenue straight through Arlington Heights until you come to signpost marked Concord boulevard.

Left turn through Lexington to Concord; at square turn left. At fork in road turn right, pass reformatory straight ahead to Littleton and take right hand turn on new concrete road to Groton, where is situated the Groton Inn.

A BEAUTIFUL INN.

Every tourist should know of this beautiful old fashioned historic inn. As a stopping place over night or for a dinner it is unsurpassed for its hospitality and excellent food. Furnished in the most up-to-date way, still it possesses much of the old-fashioned furniture and many antiques. It is so centrally located that the historic places of interest only a short walk from the inn may be visited while the tourist is resting after a long auto ride.

On the main highway, again driving straight ahead, through Townsend to West Townsend Ridge. Here you start a dirt road, but it is not in bad condition. Driving straight ahead to a fork in the road, signs posted on right-hand side of road direct you to take right turn to Jaffrey and at end of road turn left upgrade and a right-hand turn at fork in road to Shattuck Inn.

The inn is situated on the Shattuck Farm in the beautiful town of Jaffrey at the foot of Mt. Monadnock in the most picturesque part of New Hampshire's fine belt. Mount Monadnock, rising in all its grandeur to an altitude of 3,100 feet, is within easy walking distance. There is ample parking space in front of the inn should you wish to stop a while at the inn for dinner or lunch or over-night stay. The inn is of modern construction and convenient in arrangement, has a beautiful spacious dining room and takes pride in its excellent table, all vegetables and dairy products from the Shattuck Farm.

EXCELLENT CAFETERIA.

Leaving hotel driving downgrade about 100 feet then upgrade and down long hill over railroad tracks, sharp left turn over State highway and many curves and hills bring you to Peterboro, just outside the tavern.

In connection with the tavern you will find a most interesting tea garden, where tea, lunches and dinners are served. A. L. Carpenter also has a first-class cafeteria connected with the tavern. This cafeteria is conducted just the same as in a big city, only it is situated in a small town. The food is of the finest and most appetizing to look at as you approach the counter with your tray.

On main highway again, driving straight ahead up long hill through Dublin. Continue up long grade to the lake to Marlboro over good tarred roads to Keene.

As you enter Keene turn right, pass over railroad and at square turn sharp left, following trolley to second fork in road. Turn left, leaving trolley tracks; straight ahead over long hills through Chesterfield to Lake Spofford.

At Lake Spofford is the Lake Spofford Club, formerly the Pine Grove Spring Hotel properties. A very exclusive club for its members and guests only. It offers to a restricted clientele a wholesome unpretentious Summer home for its members, their friends and the busy city man's family as well as those seeking health and recreation. The club is modern in its equipment and appointments and the annexes comfortable, but less pretentious.

FAMOUS SPRINGS.

The twin springs which have justly made this place famous are situated a short walk from the club and for absolute purity and clearness are unsurpassed. High among the hills, in a magnificent pine grove away from the contaminating influences of civilization, this unfailing flow of purest waters bubbles from the gravel soil.

"The Scenic Links of New Hampshire," located on the club property, are well deserving of the title.

It is a delightful five minutes' walk through the pines along the shore of the lake to the golf club house. The present nine hole course of 2950 yards, with its start and finish at the club house, has meadow, hillside and tableland. Its ever changing scenery produces a charm and fascination unequaled. Work is now under way on nine additional holes, two or three of which, it is expected, will be in readiness very soon. Upon completion the new golf course will consist of 6,000 yards surpassed by none in New England and available to the members and their friends.

Returning to main road and back the same road to Keene. Straight across railroad track through city on sandy gravel roads to Troy. Keep right after common, turn left and straight ahead on gravel road to Fitzwilliam. Turn left down grade; straight ahead, turn left at State line railroad station on tarred roads.

Straight ahead to Winchester, turn left across railroad tracks and the Winchendon Hotel is on right. This is modern hotel under the management of H. L. Stockbridge, where the tourist can enjoy all the comforts and delights of home. An air of hospitality greets you as you enter.

Leaving Winchendon Hotel, turn and cross railroad tracks at four corners, bear left down grade over railroad tracks and bear left straight ahead. Pass Naumkeag station down steep grade to Ashburnham. Here you have a short detour around one block over fair roads. At return to main one way traffic there are 200 yards of bad road. Straight ahead on main road. All roads are marked well to Fitchburg where is located Fitchburg's best and newest hotel, The Raymond Hotel.

Located just around the corner from the depot, J. Raymond Dwyer, Prop., opened this wonderful hostelry to the public a few years ago. It is luxuriously furnished with suites of two and three rooms and bath. On the first floor is the dining room and grill room where the tourist will find real service and a cuisine of excellence. Mr. Dwyer deserves much credit for giving Fitchburg such a magnificent hotel.

At square cross bridge, railroad station at left, and turn left following trolley to Leominster at park with monument. Turn left, pass monument on right, pass under railroad bridge, bear right with trolley straight ahead to Boston. Postoffice on left, straight through Maynard—Waltham, Allston on Commonwealth avenue to Boston. The trip is approximately, 200 miles.

MOSES FEARS G. O. P. IS NEAR DISASTER

Washington, July 21.—The wave of popular sentiment which carried the Farmer-Labor party to victory in the recent Minnesota election soon will make itself felt in other States, in the opinion of Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, who predicted that the result might be disastrous to Republican plans for retaining a majority in the Senate.

"It does not take any great gift to see how, under present circumstances, we can most disaster if this movement spreads."

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR GEN. PATTERSON

Concord, N. H., July 21.—General Josh Nelson Patterson was buried here. His title read that way in military and civic history of native town, State and nation, but thousands of New Hampshire people who had seen him as the marshal of military parades in the State for a generation, knew the grand old man as "General Pat."

There was hardly a military body in the State but what was represented at the funeral.

ALIEN LAW BARS BABY BORN ON SHIP

New York, July 21.—A six-day-old baby, whose mother and father are Polish, was detained at Ellis Island because it was born on the Lapland, a British ship, and the British quota is filled. According to the authorities, the baby, because it was born on the Lapland, is as British as Tommy Atkins.

SEBAGO LAKE A PARADISE FOR FISHERMEN

Situated only seventeen miles from Portland, Me., less than four hours by train from Boston and approximately five hours by automobile, is Sebago Lake, a veritable paradise for fisherman. The individual who has the impression that he must travel miles and miles from his city in order to find good fishing will be agreeably surprised if he makes a trip to Sebago Lake.

This lake, sixteen miles long and about six miles wide, covers an area of nearly 100 square miles. In its waters are to be found some of the gamiest fresh-water fish—among them the unrivaled land-locked salmon, regarded by many as the most acrobatic quarry sought by anglers. Many have been taken from the Sebago waters weighing as much as eighteen pounds, while the average catch runs from six to fifteen pounds.

NO END OF FISH.

It is somewhat unusual that a lake so close to a large city like Portland is not completely fished out, but, despite the thousands of tourists who visit this resort each season, the angler is always sure of filling his creel.

While salmon constitute the principal catch, trout, bass and other game fish for which Maine is so renowned are to be found in fairly large numbers.

Although the best salmon are to be hooked early in the season, preferably as soon as the ice is out, the fisherman will find no lack of sport at any time throughout the Summer. In mid-season, just about this time, the special angling attraction is the black bass of the small mouth variety. Brook trout have been placed in these waters by the State fisheries department in large numbers for several years past and catches up to five pounds have been reported this season.

LONG LAKE FOR BASS.

North from Sebago Lake and almost equally good for fishing, particularly for black bass, is Long Lake, a narrow interesting stretch of water on the shores of which are Naples and Harrison, two justly popular Summer resorts. Between the two lake steamers make their way through the Songo River, inspoken of as "the crookedest river spoken of as "theo rookedest river in the world."

This trip is well worth taking, not alone for the beauty of the scenery, but for the experience, unique to many, of passing through the locks of a canal. From Sebago Lake to Long Lake as the crow flies is only two and a half miles, but by way of the Songo River it is six miles.

The whole Sebago territory abounds in good hotels, camps and houses where excellent accommodations can be obtained. The small ponds and lakes, of which there are scores, will afford the fisherman a change from fishing on either of the two larger bodies of water.

Sebago Lake is reached by rail from Boston over the Boston & Maine to Portland, Me., and then by way of the Maine Central Railroad.

The motorist will take Route 1 from Boston, passing through Lynn, Topsfield, Newburyport, Hampton, Portsmouth, York Harbor, Wells, Biddeford, Scarboro to Portland and then through Westbrook to the southern extremity of the lake.

MOTORISTS WILL FIND REST SPOT AT KITTERY

Motorists using the Newburyport Turnpike touring northward will find Kittery, Me., three miles north of Portsmouth, N. H., a delightful resting place. It is one of the beauty spots along the Maine coast and the hotel accomodations are highly satisfactory. The Piscataqua, one of the hostelries, is under the supervision of George S. Rice. Motorists will find it a desirable stopping place. Another Kittery hotel is The Pepperell, at the point overlooking the ocean. Both accommodations and meals are excellent.

BISHOP IN FILM ROLE CAUSES CHURCH RIOT

Budapest, July 21 (AP).—The Papal Nuncio, upon instructions from the Pope, has ordered the famous Coronation Church of Saint Mathias closed until it has been reconsecrated. This famous edifice was utilized in screening a film drama.

Permission was given to one of the actors to wear the coronation robes of the archbishop but as it was found that in the hem had been sewed a wafer blessed by the Pope the authorities would only allow it to be worn by a bishop, and Bishop Vlascics participated in the play.

The assumption of the role of an actor by the bishop enraged the population which stormed the building at night while the play was being filmed. One woman threw herself high on the altar, saying she would protect the church from pollution by her body. The Papal Nuncio investigated and closed the church. It is assumed that severe ecclesiastical penalties will be inflicted upon the authorities.

MAN, 81, BLIND, MISSING IN WOODS

Pittsfield, July 21—Joseph Ashley, lame, nearly blind, aged 81 years, is lost in the woods where he went berry picking. The police are helping in the hunt. Mr. Ashley, who lives at No. 15 Madison avenue, went herrying near Lulu Cascade, taking a trolley car to the end of the Pecks road line and walking into the hillside.

MADE YOUNG BY BLACK OXEN

MRS. ELIZABETH CALLAHAN

Roxbury woman who thought she was about to die, but thyroid (Black Oxen) treatment at City Hospital put her on her feet in no time and made her feel and look years younger. This treatment is the theme of Gertrude Atherton's new novel that starts in the Boston American next Monday. Naturally every woman (and most men) will want to read it. Lower photo shows Dr. O'Connell and some of the sheep from which material for thyroid treatment is obtained.

Thyroid Glands From Fat Sheep Rejuvenate Patients at City Hospital in Same Way Gertrude Atherton's Heroine Was Treated

If you slip through the main gate of Boston's busy City Hospital, take the gravel path to the right and follow along toward the laboratories and mortuary buildings you will come upon two fat sheep grazing on an ample patch of lawn.

They are hobbled and look singularly contented among the bee-like hum of a busy institution. You have just passed a couple of docile Chinamen convalescing with the serenity with which a Mongolian does everything; you have seen several more or less impatient patients of other nationalities, so the thought flashing through your mind as you view the sheep is: "What are they in for?"

WHY SHEEP ARE THERE.

The answer is that if the sheep weren't at the City Hospital the hundreds of persons clamoring for admission to take the famous thyroid treatment would be doomed to disappointment. It is from the glands of fat sheep that thyroid is taken and fed to the patient.

Not far from where these sheep are pastured is a laboratory wherein sits a youngish man, with dark keen eyes, tiny-rimmed spectacles and sensitive hands. He is Dr. Louis J. Ullian. Among medical men his reputation is made. He directs the clinic at Boston City Hospital to which come physicians of all ages from all parts of the country to see the miracles of thyroid or the "Black Oxen" treatment performed.

In Gertrude Atherton's famous novel "Black Oxen," which will be run serially in the American starting Monday, the story concerns a heroine made young by thyroid administrations. The plot evolves on the situations arising when she appears among the women she had known years before and who are now wrinkled "grandmammas." A brilliant man young enough to be her grandson falls desperately in love with her and—but you'll read it. What we started to say was that just as this woman was restored to youth, vitality and beauty so have Boston women been restored.

MRS. CALLAHAN'S STORY

Friday's American told of Mrs. Mary Gavin and her remarkable cure through the thyroid or Black Oxen treatment.

Most another lady who has been able to shed wrinkles and troubles simultaneously and who today feels like a sub-deb. Not a month ago she was in the lap of old age. She is Mrs. Elizabeth Callahan of No. 60 Terrace street, Roxbury.

"I thought I was about to die," said Mrs. Callahan. "In fact I felt so weak, so careworn and old I think I was almost ready to die. Then I was admitted to the thyroid clinic and given the first dose of the wonder medicine. The change in me was startling. The feeling that I was about to depart the world vanished with it. Every day in every way I am getting younger and I have only had the Black Oxen treatment a week."

CRAVE TO READ BOOK.

Doctors say in three months Mrs. Callahan will look like what you might expect a girl in her teens to look.

Is it any wonder that women of the United States have craved to read "Black Oxen"?

Who wouldn't be young?

Who wouldn't be vigorous.

Who wouldn't like the return of girlhood passions?

Is it worth while to get them?

Read what happened to the heroine in "Black Oxen" and see for yourself? Did she marry the man young enough to be her grandson? Did the aged ones like to see her come back among them so young and beautiful? Did she really know the thrills of youth through rejuvenation? Did she splash in the fountain of youth? Read and see. Then maybe you will want the "Black Oxen" treatment.

BABY-DESERTER VAINLY SOUGHT BY POLICE

Mrs. Vivian Doane, nineteen-year-old Salisbury mother, who deserted her two babies on a Roxbury doorstep, has evaded police in Newark, N. J., where she is in hiding.

Mrs. Alice Dow, 17 years old, her companion, was arrested in Newark, where she is being held. She is wanted for breaking jail in Salisbury.

Mrs. Dow denied having any knowledge of Mrs. Doane's whereabouts.

IN FALL RIVER.

"I left her talking to a sailor when she met in Fall River," Mrs Dow told the authorities when taken into custody.

"I didn't know she was abandoning her babies. She told me she was leaving them with a cousin who lived on Shepard avenue, Roxbury."

Doane, the hard-working carpenter husband of Vivian, declares he is through with his wife for all time.

THROUGH WITH HER.

"She did the same thing once before and I told her if she ever repeated the act I would be through with her. I meant it.

"The babies are living with Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Robinson, on a large farm just over the State line, Seabrook, N. H. They have a good home. I will see them often, and sometime I hope to have them with me. I will try to forget their mother and I am glad the children will not remember her."

RICH PUBLISHER BELIEVED DROWNED

WOMAN GETS POISON CANDY, APPEALS TO THE POLICE

Syracuse, N. Y., July 21.—After receiving two boxes of poisoned candy since January 1, Mrs. Willard A. Blaich, wife of the secretary of the Smith Wheel Company, has appealed to the police. With little to work on except a description of the youth who handed the box to Mrs. Blaich, and the analysis by a chemist which determined that the candy contained small quantities of poison, the police are unable to offer a clue to the motive.

MISSING GIRL'S BODY DISCOVERED IN CANAL

Lewiston, Me., July 21.—The body of Miss Thelma Peabody, 14 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Peabody No. 32½ Spring street, who had been missing since Wednesday, was found floating in the main canal. She had been visiting in Auburn, and returning is believed to have fallen into the river in attempting a short cut over the railroad bridge.

IRISH GENERAL ELECTION LAST WEEK IN AUGUST

Dublin, July 21 (AP).—The Dail Eireann decided at a secret session Thursday, it was learned today, to hold the general elections about the last week of August and not later than the first week in September. It is believed dissolution of the government may occur at any moment.

Poisoned Girl Seeks Vengeance

SAYS YOUTH HELD HER AS SLAVE

Esther Morse, Now Eager to Face Court Ordeal, Wants Attacker Punished

By HAROLD R. HALL

Natick, July 21.—Snatched from the jaws of a suicidal death, pretty nineteen-year-old Esther Morse, who took poison rather than testify in court against the man accused of assaulting her, lay on her little white bed today and prayed for vengeance.

She has given up the desire to die. She only wants to regain her strength so she may appear in court and give testimony which she says ought to send Alfred Machado of Framingham behind prison bars.

Machado was in court in this town charged by the State with assault and a statutory offense. Miss Morse was the principal witness against him. She was the assaulted girl. She walked into the courtroom and just before she was to be called to tell her story drank the contents of a vial of iodine. For a time it was feared her life would be lost, but due to quick action on the part of State officer Callahan who hurried her to the hospital, she was saved. She is now home with her mother.

WANTED TO DIE.

"I wanted to die when I took that poison," said the girl. "God only knows how badly I wanted to die. But I want to live now. I want to see that man placed behind the bars. I want to see him punished for what he has done to me, and for the suffering he has caused me. I know now I will live and I pray for strength to testify against him when the case comes up again on the thirteenth of this month.

"I went into that courtroom with the knife hidden in my hand. I looked around at the people who knew me. Then I saw Machado. He looked straight at me and laughed. He did not care about what I was going to have to do. That laugh was too much—added to all the faces of my friends. I just gave up and drank that stuff and wanted to die. Death was far preferable to telling of my shame before my friends.

"When I fell to the floor writhing in agony, I got one glimpse of that man's hideous face. He was still laughing at me as I was on the road to death.

"That man has hounded me for ten months. He has made life a hell for me. I hope it is all over now."

Miss Morse is the sister of Mrs. Hazel Anderson, who a year ago created a sensation when she appeared on the stage of a movie theatre in Milton and posed as Anna Q. Nilsson, a movie star.

TELLS HOW MATE WAS HACKED TO DEATH

Waterloo, N. Y., July 21. (I.N.S.)—Mrs Nettie Case Taylor, mother of six children, today confessed that she saw her husband, Frank Taylor, hacked to death with an axe while he fought to save her from attack by his erstwhile bosom pal, Frank McKnight, a neighbor.

McKnight and his brother, William McKnight, the latter a paroled patient from a State insane asylum, are under arrest today in connection with the murder probe.

Their apprehension brings the number of persons detained by the authorities in the Taylor case to five. In addition to the McKnight brothers, those held are: Mrs. Taylor, the widow, who faces a first degree murder charge, and two of the six children, Raymond, twelve years old, and Dorothy ten, both held as material witnesses.

BIG SLUMP IN JUNE COTTON SPINNING

Washington, July 21.—Cotton spinning activity fell off almost a billion active spindle hours in June, as compared with May, but exceeded June of last year by 738,000,000 active spindle hours, the census bureau's monthly report shows. The average number of spindles operated during June was 36,897,371, or at 98.7 per cent, capacity on a single shift basis, compared with 40,192,970, or 107.5 per cent. capacity in May this year, and 33,803,293, or 91.6 per cent. capacity in June last year.

JOY-RIDERS LEAVE AUTO IN WESTWOOD

An abandoned touring car, reported stolen last evening, was discovered today by Motor Cycle Officer Driscoll on Clapboard street, Westwood. The front of the car was slightly damaged. Police believe the car was taken for a joy ride and discarded after the party.

WHO IS CITY'S MOST CHARMING GIRL?

MISS MARY K. CAMPBELL

From Columbus, Ohio, who will defend her title of most beautiful girl in America.

CHARMING GIRL TOURNAMENT

Quest for the Most Fascinating Young Woman in Boston or Vicinity

CHARMING GIRL EDITOR, BOSTON AMERICAN,
80 Summer St., Boston (8), Mass.:—

Please enter me as a candidate in your tournament to determine who is the MOST CHARMING girl in Boston or vicinity. If chosen as "Miss Boston," I agree to accept the week's free trip to Atlantic City, N. J., with my mother or other suitable chaperon.

Full Name ..... Age .....
Occupation .....
Address ..... Telephone .....

I desire to nominate the following named person as a candidate in the above-named tournament.

Full Name ..... Age .....
Occupation .....
Address ..... Telephone .....
Signed ..... Address .....

A girl may nominate herself or a friend may nominate her. Girls between 14 and 30 years of age, inclusive, may obtain one photograph for this tournament by arranging for a free sitting at any of the following studios—Otto Sarony, No. 161 Tremont street; Champlain, No. 161 Tremont street; Waid, No. 168 Tremont street; Ye Craftsman, No. 561 Boylston street, and Warren Kay Vantine, No. 154 Boylston street.

Is the MOST CHARMING girl in Greater Boston a blonde or brunette?

Or has she lovely titian locks such as the poets rave about?

The Boston American wants to find her and doesn't care in which class she comes. When this newspaper finds the bewitching charmer it will give her a week's trip to Atlantic City during pageant time, free of expense. It will also pay all the expenses of her mother or any other chaperon she selects.

Miss Greater Boston a more fascinating young woman than 17-year-old Miss Mary K. Campbell of Columbus, Ohio, who was selected at last year's Atlantic City pageant as the most beautiful maid in America? Miss Campbell will defend her title at this season's pageant, which takes place September 5, 6 and 7. Sixty cities of this country and Canada will send their loveliest girls to compete against Miss Campbell for first honors.

Miss Campbell is a graduate of East Lake High School, and is fond of all forms of outdoor sports, especially swimming and riding. She also likes dancing. She is five feet, five inches tall and weighs 133 pounds.

BOSTON'S CHANCES.

That Boston has a good chance to win the national beauty title was indicated last year when Miss Charlotte Trowbridge, selected as "Miss Boston," was regarded by the judges as the tenth most charming girl in a field of 75 entrants. Miss Trowbridge is now earning a good living in New York posing for world renowned artists who were attracted by her beauty at Atlantic City.

The girl who is selected to take the free trip to Atlantic City will also have an opportunity to secure a $10,000 job in the movies, as officials of many of the big film companies will be present looking for a new screen star. "The Queen of the Hub," as Boston's winner will be termed, will have a chance to win a $5,000 gold trophy, in the form of a mermaid mounted on a bronze pedestal. This last gift goes to the young woman who is picked as the loveliest bathing girl in the spectacular parade of bathing beauties, which is to be a feature of the Atlantic City carnival.

Girls from 14 to 30, inclusive, married or single, may enter the tournament. There are no strings attached to the offer. A girl may enter herself or a friend may nominate her. All that is necessary to become an entrant is to fill out the coupon on this page and send it with a good photograph to "Charming Girl Editor" of the Boston American.

From the photographs that are sent in 25 will be selected by the judges, who will be eminent artists. These artists, whose names will be printed later in the Boston American, will request the 25 young women to appear in person for the final tests.

SITTINGS FREE.

The Boston American has arranged with five of Boston's leading photographers to make sittings free of any girl who desires to enter the tournament. One copy of such photographs will be given to the Boston American to be entered in the contest.

The places where free sittings may be obtained by persons desiring to enter are Champlain Studios, No. 161 Tremont street; Ye Craftsman Studio, Inc., No. 561 Boylston street; Otto Sarony Company, No. 161 Tremont street; Waid Studio, No. 168 Tremont street, and Warren Kay Vantine, No. 154 Boylston street.

Girls should go to any of the studios and tell the person in charge that they desire a sitting in order to enter the American's tournament.

Remember that it costs absolutely nothing to enter the tournament. Merely fill out the coupon and send in a photograph and then await the action of the Judges. Don't forget that every proper expense during the week's trip to Atlantic City will be paid for both winner and chaperon. The girl who is chosen will have the time of her life. She will be feted from one end of the week to the other.

MANIAC IS SEEN IN 2 PLACES

Residents of Woonasquatucket Valley Terrorized by His Reported Presence

Providence, July 21 (I.N.S.).—A posse of armed constables and citizens today scoured the Woonasquatucket Valley for Frank Weeden, escaped inmate of the State hospital for the insane. Officers working on the brutal murder of seven-year-old Vincenzo Picano, are anxious to apprehend Weeden.

Residents of the valley, between Centerdale and Chepachet, are terrorized. Mothers keep their children in their homes with the doors locked. Weeden has been reported seen at several places, since the murder, last Monday. Wagon and truck drivers have given him rides and he has obtained food at farmhouses in isolated places.

At Greenville, a man believed to be Weeden chased Jennie Appelby, eleven-year-old daughter of Leroy Appleby. The child reached her home unharmed.

An armed posse headed by Town Sergeant Abraham Hawkins of Gloucester chased a man they saw running through Chepachet. They had been informed the man has but one eye, which is the case with Weeden.

When overtaken, the runner proved to be "Young" Montreal, the Providence bantamweight, who was training for a bout. One of the boxer's eyes was closed, the result of a blow from a sparring partner.

Weeden is known to be armed with a razor and a bale hook.

JACKIE SAUNDERS IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Los Angeles, July 21.—Jackie Saunders, comely film star, has obtained a divorce from her husband Ed Horkheimer, also of the movies. The heroine of the reel thrillers declared real experiences were far more thrilling than the make believe of screen land. Ed. she charged, was guilty of non-support. She obtained alimony and the custody of her small daughter, who has inherited from her mother the Saunders smile. Hollywood was quite surprised as it had been generally believed that Jackie was extremely happy with her husband.

THE WAYS OF A HUSBAND—By ANN LISLE

A Splendid Sequel to the Famous Story of Wedded Life, "When a Girl Marries"

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Jim and Anne find happiness again on a honeymoon spent in the apartment of Betty Winston, loaned for the occasion. They go to Dreamwold for a Sunday dinner with Jeanie and are met in the grounds by Rosa, who ignores Anne. Rosa advises the discharge of Mabel Storrs to save the big salary. This Anne resents. Evvy helps Anne arrange her apartments and a dinner is given as a housewarming. Phoebe grows hysterical on receipt of Carlotta's wedding invitation. Betty speaks to Anne about Ralph's fondness for the latter.

By Ann Lisle

I'D never have undertaken to sign a contract with the men who want the corner lots unless I was thinking Neal had as good as got the strip we need from Tompkins. I told what I didn't have. That I did because I trusted Neal."——

"And you can trust him!" I cried. "There's some explanation"——

"Explanations will do no good. The credit of the Dalton-Sturges Company goes if I can't be after delivering what I've signed—saying I could deliver."

"It's Neal who worries me," I cried tearfully. "Anything might have happened to him. I'm trying to be calm about him, but I can't!"——

"You can and you must," answered Pat grimly. "I've put the best private detective in town to hunting for Neal. I said never a word about anything except his grief over the young wife. So now, Alanna, you must be brave about that and be after helping me think of a way to save the day. 'Tis Neal's firm, also, you'll be remembering."

"And you took him into partnership," I said slowly. "He's my brother. We're alike maybe. And the old curmudgeon who liked him might like me"——

"What are you saying, Alanna!" demanded Pat.

"I'm telling you I'll try to get the option again." I answered, coming to the end of the thinking and putting it into words. "I'll see Tompkins tomorrow."

Promise to Pat

When I promised Pat to "see Tompkins tomorrow" I forgot that was the day when we'd bear Phoebe to her resting place.

We went through the tragic and final experience without Neal. He did not come back. Something in my heart whispered that if Neal were alive he'd be with Phoebe on this last journey. Something in my brain cried out that I was a coward and a weakling to harbor such a thought.

But when we drove back to Neal's apartment—empty now of both him and Phoebe—I remembered the promise I had made to Pat. And grimly I nerved myself to carry it out.

Jeanie was cold and curt in her grief. The thing I had sub-consciously dreaded was beginning to happen. She showed signs of rancor and bitterness against Neal. That strengthened me in my determination to go to Mr. Tompkins and do what I could to save Neal's credit by getting back the option for the Dalton-Sturges Corporation. But when I prepared to leave, Virginia turned on me.

"Going—to your office, Anne?" she asked with the bitterest irony. "I suppose that has first call on your attention now."

Jim astonished me by coming to my defence. But my surprise was nothing compared to my joy.

"I'd like Anne to get out into the air, Jeanie. She's been housed in here for days. And we mustn't forget that she's undergoing a double strain. She's been a brick not to give in to her feeling about Neal"——

"Neal!" stormed Jeanie. "Never let me hear his name again!"

"Oh, Jeanie," I begged. "Surely you must know that if he could—if there were any way for him to be with us, he'd be here"——

As I spoke I realized with new terror that boy like Neal, wandering around with $50,000 in bills was the prey to the city's vultures. I looked at Pat pleadingly. It seemed possible that Jeanie would be kinder if she knew. I wondered if the facts wouldn't aid Jim in helping us. Pat must have read my thoughts, for he shook his head, almost imperceptibly. And I recognized that this was not the time to go into any details. There was only one thing for me to do—and I must do it at once.

"I've got to leave you," I said, starting for the other side of the room and speaking from the doorway. "I've something—vital to attend to. I'll see you all at dinner this evening over at my apartment. Good-bye."

A Personal Call

Then I hurried off and made for the nearest telephone pay station. But once I'd looked up Mr. Tompkins in the directory I did not call him. Instead, I went to his office. I made up my mind that if I had to strangle the office boy I'd get to the man I wanted to see.

Barely Tompkins has a shabby little office on the further side of the city. A drab old clerk in his entire office force. This clerk shook his head when I asked to see Mr. Tompkins. He hemmed and hawed and said he didn't think I could have an interview. Then I astonished him—and myself by pushing past him, opening the door marked "private" and fairly hurling myself after my knock.

At the sound of my entrance a big, burly, red-faced man with a pair of narrow, steely eyes and sparse white hair on a round head looked up from the chair in which he sat tilted back. He glared at me.

Lover's Leap

DRAWN BY POPINI

Copyright, 1923, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE call of the open spaces—the summons that sings in the song of every bird and that is wafted by the perfume from each flower—lures many a man and many a maid to a playtime spirit they had thought lost long ago.

A run across country seems just a simple game, but suddenly she hesitates at the leap he took without a thought. For if she leaps she must leap into his arms, and that might be perilous!

Outstretched, his arms loom like a haven of safety—she is sure he will not let her be hurt. But here's the question—If she leaps into his arms will he take it as the answer to the question he has asked her: "Will you marry me?" Ah, shall she make this one leap mean the answer? Only her heart can decide! —POPINI.

A WONDERFUL BOOK

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

A BOOK that I would advise for everybody who lives in the country—even if it be only a city suburb—and who at the same time feels an interest in the animal and vegetable life stirring around him, is Gilbert White's "Natural History of Selborne." This is one of those strange and rare books that possess a personality, and consequently an undying charm. There have probably been a hundred editions of it since 1789.

John Burroughs said that he could return to it and reread it every six or seven years. But he certainly must have reread parts of it much oftener than that. It is not its facts so much as its atmosphere that attracts and charms.

Selborne is a beautiful old English country town in Hampshire, surrounded with very green fields, hills and woods, but there is no special reason why its natural history should be the subject of a book. And, in fact, what Gilbert White wrote about was not merely Shelborne's birds, beasts, tortoises, wasps, weasels, owls, ducks, vipers, flying spiders, crickets, chimney swallows, thunderstorms, dry Summers, wet seasons, big winds and storms, etc., but those of a hundred thousand other places scattered all over the temperate zone.

More than that, he made by some literary magic difficult to analyze mental pictures of these things which have so much atmosphere that you enjoy them as much as you would the things and scenes themselves, perhaps more. At any rate the English language does not contain another book dealing with everyday outdoors that can hold the pace alongside of this simple series of letters by a village pastor, who had a quick and accurate eye and a deep interest in the wonders, beauties and curiosities of this world, preaching sermons only on Sunday.

What a memorable story is that about the man who having but a single horse "happened also on a time to have but one solitary hen. These incongruous animals spent much of their time together in a lonely orchard where they saw no creature but each other. By degrees an apparent regard began to take place between these two sequestered individuals. The fowl would approach the quadruped with notes of complacency, rubbing herself gently against his legs; while the horse would look down with satisfaction, and move with the greatest caution and circumspection lest he should trample on his diminutive companion. Thus by mutual good offices each seemed to console the vacant hours of the other."

I am not ashamed to say the "notes of complacency" of that hen, sounding gently in my memory in some meditative moment, have more than once called me back irresistibly to Gilbert White's book, in order that I might revivify the scene.

Yes, indeed, Gilbert White left a book that is a mirror of himself and the things that interested him, and what better can a man do for those who live after him.

In Speaking

Wrong.

"This is the best of the two." (Comparing two objects.)

Right.

"This is the better of the two."

Wrong.

"Just between you and I."

Right.

"Just between you and me."

"Me" is used because the pronoun should be in the objective case, being governed by the preposition "between."

Wrong

"A red and a white flag was flying from the pole.'

Right

"A red and a white flag were flying from a pole."

The repetition of the article "a" shows that the adectives are to be taken separately.

WRONG.

"The squad were drilling."

RIGHT.

"The squad was drilling." "Squad" is a "collective" noun, one that represents a group of persons or things considered as a whole, and takes a singular verb.

WRONG.

"Formidable," pronounced "formid-a-bl," with the accent on the "mid."

RIGHT.

"Formidable," pronounced "formid-da-bl," accented on the "for."

BEST PATTERNS ONLY 10 CTS. EACH

The Boston American offers today more of its new and stylish dress patterns at a price never before equalled elsewhere. It will cost from 15c to $1 to duplicate these patterns anywhere else. Orders MUST be on OFFICIAL COUPON.

4218

A SPLENDID "WORK" COSTUME IN ROMPER STYLE WITH OR WITHOUT SKIRT

4218. This design fills a long felt want—combining utility, neatness and comfort, with good style lines. The "Romper" may be worn without the skirt, which can be readily fastened if desired. Serge, linen, gingham, khaki and crepe are good materials for this model.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 6¼ yards of 36-inch material. Without the skirt 4 yards will be required.

A DAINTY FROCK FOR A GIRL

4444. Grace and attractive lines are here portrayed. This is a good style for linen, jersey cloth, silk or voile.

The pattern is cut in four sizes, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size requires 1⅞ yards of 36-inch material. A pleasing development would be mustard color jersey cloth with embroidery in green yarn.

4443

A SIMPLE "SMOCK" FROCK.

4443. This style of dress is especially attractive for the active slender little girl. It is good for all wash fabrics and for silk, kasha and jersey cloth.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years.

A STYLISH GOWN FOR A MATURE FIGURE.

4362. This is very smart in the new figured silks, or in printed crepe or voile. The blouse and skirt are finished separately, but may be joined together under the belt of the blouse. The sleeve is new and distinctive and the lines of the model are altogether slenderizing and pleasing.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 6¼ yards of 36-inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2½ yards.

A MODEL FOR LERVICE AND PROTECTION

4163. This "easy to make" apron model is nice in unbleached muslin with facings of contrasting material, or, in gingham, chints or percale. The side seams are free below the hips, but if preferred may be closed their entire length.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A medium size requires 4¾ yards of 27-inch material.

4430

A GOOD STYLE FOR MATURE FIGURES

4430. Figured and plain foulard are here combined. One could use satin and embroidery or brocaded silk with satin. Crepe, and embroidered georgette are also a good combination.

The pattern is cut in 8 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 5 yards of 40-inch material. For panel and collar of contrasting material 1 yard 27 inches wide will be required. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2¾ yards.

4425

AN ATTRACTIVE NEGLIGEE.

4425. Foulard is here portrayed with girdle and bindings of satin in a contrasting color.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A medium size requires 4½ yards of 40-inch material. The width at the foot is 2¾ yards.

Old Methods Are Best

Vacuum clothes brushes have been invented for use in homes, but it seems fairly certain that women will continue to rely on their hands when cleaning out hubby's pockets.

"Sensational novels have not been lacking among the more than twenty volumes of fiction that Mrs. Atherton has given to her multitude of readers. We venture to assert that BLACK OXEN is the most sensational of the lot. The theme is not new in fiction, but you may be sure that Mrs. Atherton handles it as it was never handled before by any writer. It is a theme forever new and forever near to the heart of woman. I can well believe that no novel on the Spring list of any publisher will occasion as wide discussion." Boston Herald.

STARTS NEXT MONDAY.

"Gertrude Atherton's genius is not essentially self-critical, nevertheless, it is indubitably genius, genius of a higher quality than that possessed by the artist who struggles with words and phrases to achieve his ideal of perfection.

BLACK OXEN may be considered her most brilliant book up to date—once begun it doesn't permit itself to be dropped until finished. It will more firmly seat its author in the unique place she now occupies in our literature." Carl Van Vechten in N. Y. Nation.

"BLACK OXEN as a whole, like most current fiction, is absorbed in sex, but it is a masterly treatment of the theme." N. Y. Sun

"This experiment in rejuvenation, this terrible struggle between an old mind's love of power and a young mind's need of love, all these tricks of plot and theme are for her, just wheels on which to run her story, and for us, bait to catch our interest, to lure us into the novel. The description is what she writes for, and what the good reader will read for. It is as a social description, done with power that one must praise BLACK OXEN." Buffalo News

FLAMING YOUTH By WARNER FABIAN

The Great Reform Novel of the Year, Baring Innermost Secrets of Luxury-Loving Class

START THIS BIG, NEW STORY TODAY

Mona Fentriss, young, beautiful and the wife of a consulting engineer, has been told by her physician, Bob Osterhout, who is in love with her, that she has only a short time to live. Mona gives a gay party, telling Pat to go to bed, but the latter borrows a sister's dress, steals downstairs and has "a taste of life." Connie goes to a dance at the club and takes too much punch. She is brought home by Fred Browning, with whom she had uneventfully spent the night. Sel Thorpe gives Pat a "real" kiss. Mona dies and Constance receives a call from Cary Scott, her mother's first admirer. Scott is much taken with Pat. A party is planned for the Dangerfields to christen the new swimming pool. A thunder storm puts out the lights and the guests go into the water without clothes. Dee modestly hesitates on the balcony and then—the lights come on, revealing her in a blinding glare. One of the bathers is saved from drowning by Cary Scott. Pat and Cary Scott become interested in each other. Pat returns from school and declares she is "out for trouble" this time. Scott and Pat confess their love and Scott, whose wife is living, says good-by to her. Pat pretends to Dr. Osterhout that she is about to have a baby. He asks her to marry him. Then she admits she has tricked him and that it is Dee who wants his aid. Cary Scott comes back and Pat succumbs to him. Dee's husband is badly hurt. She refuses to elope with Wollaston. Pat confesses to Dee her relations with Cary. She goes to New York to see Ralph Fentriss' "flossie" and is invited to Edna Carroll's parties.

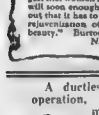
"My prediction is that this novel will interest more women than any novel since Vance Thompson's "Eat and Grow Thin." It is more than likely that its more sensational theme will overshadow its higher merits as an entertaining and well planned novel containing a clever and delicious expose of the feminine mind. I can but suggest that if you are a male and want a jolt for your little complacencies and vanities, read BLACK OXEN. I do not need to suggest that women read it. They will soon enough if they find out that it has to do with the rejuvenianon of youth and beauty." Burton Rascoe—N. Y. Tribune



A ductless gland operation, not the monkey gland operation of comic fame, is the real secret of restored youth and beauty as revealed by Gertrude Atherton in the greatest book of the day, Black Oxen, which starts in Monday's American.

ANSWER TO WRONG HERE PROBLEM

"In the next few months, perhaps weeks, BLACK OXEN will become one of the best selling books in Chicago and by the middle of Spring any woman who has not read it will find herself hopelessly out of the talk of the town, for it has many elements of popularity—it is as timely as today's newspaper, it has both mystery and suspense and a love story. It is more frank than anything F. Scott Fitzgerald or Robert Herrick ever attempted, and yet entirely respectable, and it marks the high point of achievement for Mrs. Atherton as a novelist." Remember the Time--

By Jack Casey

YEER used to get a wooden box and a piece of window glass. The box would fill with cotton. Then would come the chloroform bottle and moisten some of the cotton with it. Then the glass would be put on top and the box would be closed.

An' then would come the chase. Butterflies with a high-up or butterfly nature would land on the box. Before they knew it they was pressed on a frequent basis. We two had all kinds of a time with it, once a year every spring, the fellows would have at the boys home some celebration. The school an' local an' everything. An' everybody would study what the different specimens was an' present it for a prize later.

Yer used to play games on rainy days when there wasn't no school an' yer had a good chance on the game where ye put the folded newspaper in the head to put the tacks in, but it got wore after the first few times.

An' the first time yer ever played the game where everybody was given a tack, a spool, an' the cup was a little water. Yer gamer stood in front of you an' had to do what you did. She put a finger in the water in her cup, then rubbed her face with it, and she says she could see your cheeks frostbud and chill. So did you. You had to keep on even when she did. Then was nothin' on her face when you did. But it was a nice way you'd yourself lookin' in the paper, a strange face on the bottom of your water with a pin.

I guess that's some of the fun they have with little girls at least I used to. I guess we have to have 'em around the house, anyway.

A girl who went a long ways was a boy people in a way of "Oh, listen to the main one!" an' the tallest girl I ever seen was in the Civil War. I guess she's there yet.

REMEMBER.
I'LL SAY YER TOO

"A novel by Gertrude Atherton is always a literary event. Before it is opened a safe wager can be made that the story will be worth-while. BLACK OXEN is brilliant, with a fine insight logical and with a careful eye to reality, the story never loses the keen interest which it possesses from the very start."

—Portland Oregonian

"The conflict of a woman's soul and its influence upon two lovers of diametrically opposed characters, make an absorbing story. There are some superb scenes with moving, dramatic situations, and the amazing gift for color and action with which Mrs. Atherton is endowed, make this a story of intense vitality and magnificent literary attainment."

—Buffalo Courier

"BLACK OXEN is a drama which for psychological penetration and insight into the deeper recesses of woman's nature has rarely, if ever, been equalled in fiction."

During election period last year in Scotland, I was engaged, along with other members of committee, in canvassing electors. As the majority of voters could only be found at home at night, we operated working in the dark.

One of these nights I had occasion to call on a Mr. M——, whose home was set back in a dark alley way. Knocking at the door, which almost instantaneously opened, I was greeted with a feminine form throw her arms round my neck, exclaiming at the same moment, "You have been a long time coming tonight." Judge of the embarrassment both for myself and the lady, who fled without an explanation, when she saw her mistake, and that her sweetheart was still to arrive.

—CHARLES F. MATTHEWS, c/o Nicoll, 205 Florence street, Hyde Square, Boston, Mass.

"In BLACK OXEN Mrs. Atherton has produced an absorbing romance of imaginative feminine psychology. Quite the finest thing she has done since 'The Conqueror.' It is a story with the true quality of romance brilliantly realized. Unique in the originality of its conception. The central theme is one that comes but once in a generation. Instinctively one returns to the Proust de Balzac for a story of such perennial mystery, fanciful symbolism and startling originality."

The player of this discussion among baseball fans is considered as the most valuable man on his team. The question naturally arises as to what player of the baseball world is the most valuable to his club.

RUTH LIVING IDEAL OF MODEL PLAYER.

It would be hard to find Babe Ruth all put together. Just as General Pershing is the ideal soldier, and the Duke of Connaught is the ideal governor general of Canada, so is Babe Ruth the ideal baseball player. Despite his many failings, he is the most valuable baseball player in the game today.

Ruth has gone about his work with a reckless abandon, playing the best ball he knows how. He has shortened his swing and is depending on his ability to hit the ball where it is pitched.

Ruth has been the most valuable player to his club in the league for the past two years. He has been the most valuable player in baseball for the past two years.

MANY VALUABLE PROPERTIES CONVEYED TO NEW OWNERS

The placing to record of papers involving valuable properties in the city proper, including Back Bay, enlivened the closing days of a week which started off toward establishing a new record, both for the small number and slight valuation of transactions reported.

Among the more important deals was that whereby Frank A. Conners purchased from the trustees under the will of Sarah E. Lawrence the properties at Nos. 292-295 Commonwealth avenue, next to the corner of Massachusetts avenue, consisting of two six-story, brown stone front apartment houses of eight suites each, with a total assessed valuation of $124,300. No. 292 has a land area of 3,444 square feet assessed for $35,100 of the $62,000 total assessment. No. 295 comprises 3,368 square feet of land taxed on $35,600, with $26,700 on the building. The sellers were represented by Cabot, Cabot & Forbes.

Papers have been recorded in the sale by George W. Gay to William J. Stober of the four-story, swell front brick building at No. 665 Boylston street. The total assessed valuation is $56,500, of which $45,400 is on the land.

No. 298 Beacon street, a four-story and basement brick building with 3,600 square feet of land, running through to Back street and Charles River Esplanade has been sold by Susanna R. Dabney to Helen G. Holfe. This property has a total tax valuation of $43,600, of which $32,300 is on the land. Papers have passed.

NO. 12 NEWBURY STREET.

Papers have been passed in the sale by Nathalie A. Huntress to Thomas P. Maddox of the five-story brick building with 2109 square feet of land at No. 12 Newbury street, near Arlington street. The new owner will remodel for business purposes.

A five-story brick building and 1123 square feet of land at No. 9 Allen street, has been conveyed by Joseph Sholensky to Sarah England. Of the $14,000 total valuation, $5,600 is on the land.

Johanna A. Walsh has acquired from Loretta A. White and another a three-story and basement brick building at No. 13 Yarmouth street, assessed for $7400. The 2205 square feet of land are assessed for $4400. Papers have been recorded.

The sale of the three-story and basement brick building at No. 71 Barton street to Rebecca Bell and another, is reported. Bessie Gilman is the grantor. The total assessment on the property is $6000, of which $2700 is on the land.

HOME OF "PERFECTION" SPRINGS

CARS MAY ENTER EITHER FROM BROOKLINE AV. OR BOYLSTON ST.

In this roomy service station at No. 162 Brookline avenue, in the heart of the Back Bay automobile district, is a completely equipped plant for the tempering and shaping of automobile springs, patterned after the model factories of the Eaton Axle & Spring Company at Cleveland, O., and Pontiac, Mich. A complete stock of springs for all makes of cars is maintained here to supply dealer agents throughout New England, and the service department for the repair and installation of springs is conducted principally as an accomodation for motorists whose cars are factory equipped with "Perfection" springs.

SPRING DEMAND KEEPS STATION OPEN NIGHTS

Because of the great increase in automobile registrations and the resulting increase in the demand for spring repairs, announcement is made by The Eaton Axle & Spring Company, that the direct factory branch service station at No. 162 Brookline avenue, Back Bay, will be open until 10 o'clock every evening, except Saturday, for the accommodation of motorists and truck men desiring spring repairs.

This service station of The Eaton Axle & Spring Company has been established in Boston for four years. Formerly the Standard Parts Company, the product of this organization, Perfection Springs, has been known to motorists for years, owing to the large number of automobiles on which the springs have been used as factory equipment. At the present time more than 100 popular makes of cars use these springs as standard equipment. Over 3,000 springs are furnished daily to Ford Company.

The heat-treating furnace at the local service station is identical in design with those used in the company's big plants at Cleveland and Pontiac, where the car manufacturers' equipment is manufactured. The furnace is gas fired, which provides a steady, non-varying heat, which insures even temper of every piece of steel.

According to Manager H. J. Smith, correct tempering is the prime essential of spring making, for one incorrectly tempered leaf in a spring makes the entire spring bad. Consequently the heat treating operations at the local branch are men who have served in the main plants at Cleveland and Pontiac and are experts in this line. Proper curvature is another factor of essential importance in the service which will be obtained from a spring, and great care is taken to insure that every leaf is given the proper curvature to take the strain imposed upon it.

The service station at No. 162 Brookline avenue is probably the largest spring service station, in point of floor space, in Boston. Located practically in the heart of the automobile district, with entrances both from Brookline avenue and from Boylston street, it enjoys a large patronage from motorists.

Another distinction enjoyed by this service station is that as a direct factory branch its principal business is the furnishing of springs and making repairs for automobile dealers throughout New England. Consequently only a nominal charge is made for the removal and installation of new springs plus the actual cost of the spring or part, and this service is maintained more as a convenience for local motorists than from a desire to build up a large profit-making business.

Papers Recorded In Apartment House Sales

Brick apartment house property at Nos. 1878-1880 Chestnut Hill Avenue, corner of Commonwealth Avenue, taxed for a total of $52,400 has been sold by Louis Berkowitz to Elias Ruffel. There is a land area of 3,747 square feet on which the assessment is $3,700. Papers have gone to record.

A brick apartment house and 4,000 square feet of land in Sutherland Road, Brighton, has been sold by Joseph Bornstein to Olive Carangelo, who reconveyed to Marie Wermuth. The total valuation is $16,900, of which $4,000 is on the 3,600 square feet of land.

Sales in Suburbs

Mable S. Libby has sold to the Chas. G. Clapp Company, a six-room house with 6,000 square feet of land on Mill street, Arlington Centre.

A. F. French has transferred to Peter M. Nickerson, through the local office of the Chas. G. Clapp Company, title to the property at No. 45 River street, Braintree, comprising a large house and about one-quarter acre of land.

HEAVY TRAVEL TO CANADIAN RESORTS

Tourist and vacation travel to Canadian resorts, the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River region is unusually heavy at present. The Jos M. Shea Tourist Co., 82 Wold South Bldg., Boston, is making arrangements for a large number of tourist parties to Niagara Falls, the Thousand Islands, Montreal, Quebec and the Saguenay.

These resorts can be so conveniently and inexpensively reached from New England points, and there is so much of interest to see at these delightful places that their popularity is increasing to a very large extent. Mr. Shea states that there is a larger number of New Englanders visiting Canada this year than ever before. The Shea Company are now featuring vacation trips to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and steamer trips to Newfoundland and the Gulf of the St. Lawrence.

Trips to the famous Shrine of Ste Anne de Beaupre have an added interest just now on account of the laying of the cornerstone of the new Cathedral of Ste. Anne, which will take place on the Feast Day, July 26th. Information regarding Canadian tours and vacation trips to Atlantic City, the Hudson River, Norfolk, Washington, the National Parks of Yellowstone and Glacier may be had by applying to the Shea Company. A copy of their new booklet entitled "Summer Trips by Trains and Ships," will be sent upon request.

SHOWERS SUPPLANT TUBS IN POPULARITY

The inevitable bathtub in every American home is one of the most surprising features of American life to arrivals from other nations. Not even the English, who make a sort of ritual of the bath, consider a bath room, as it is known in America, a necessary part of a home. In Germany and other European nations, houses being built today, except those for the very rich, make no provision for this almost strictly American innovation.

That Americans are progressive even in this direction, and large numbers are supplementing the bath tub with the bath shower, is the assertion of the Real Estate Owners' Supply Company, of Nos. 48-50 Union street, dealers in plumbing and heating equipment direct to the home-owner. Not only are a large majority of new houses being built with showers installed, but hundreds of home-owners are installing showers, which require no plumbing work of any kind for their attachment.

There are a great variety of these offered, the most popular being the curtain type, which supply the shower from above. Among the newest of these is one finished with a lustrous snow white finish, guaranteed not to chip, crack, craze or discolor. This particular shower is being bought in large numbers by tenants in rented houses, as it is portable and can be taken down in a few moments if it should be desired to move from the house.

STORE AND OFFICE LEASES REPORTED

The following leases of business property have been negotiated by the office of C. W. Whittier & Co.:

The Trustees of the Textile Building have leased to Parker Wilder & Company 1,175 square feet of space in the Textile Building for a term of years.

Lawrence Minot, et al, trustees, have leased the store and basement at No. 42 High street to the Boston Typewriter Company for a term of years.

The estate of Henry C. Stoehr has leased to the Voye Electric Supply Company the second and fifth floors at Nos. 390-392 Congress street.

The Trustees of the Beale Associates have leased to Mr. Max Palls and Mr. Myer Wax a portion of the fifth floor of the building at Nos. 276-286 Friend street.

William Minot et al, trustees, have renewed the lease to The Boston & Springfield Deutch Company of the store at No. 9 Otis street.

The Ames Estate has leased for a period of years to the Evans Music Company the entire top floor at No. 86 Essex street.

BUYS BLOCK OF 14 ROXBURY HOUSES

Fourteen three-story brick apartment houses containing forty apartments and two stores, in the Elliot square section of Roxbury, assessed for a total of $75,000, have been purchased by Frank A. Connors, who took title through James M. Burr. The following parcels were included in the transaction: Nos. 50-54-56-58-60-62-64-66-68-70 Highland avenue, each lot containing about 1,400 square feet; Nos. 2-4-6-8-10-12 Bore street, with 6,000 square feet land area; and Nos. 1 to 5 Milmont street, with lots of 1,400 square feet. The grantors, Marcus Salmanshon and Louis Goldstein, were represented by Harry Webber.

Three three-story brick dwellings on Eustis street, near Adams street, Roxbury, have been conveyed by Carl Hendrickson to Isaac Kabler. Each house is assessed for $4,000, with $800 on the 1,240 square feet of land, making a total valuation of $13,800. Papers have gone to record.

Frank W. Wildes and Ralph W. Stewart, trustees under the will of George S. Mann, have sold the four three-family brick houses at Nos. 93-95-97-99 Hunneman street to Robert S. Clisby. The total assessment is $15,300, of which $2,300 is on the 4,475 square feet of land. J. J. Billington & Co., and George C. Appleton & Son were the brokers.

The three cottage and 1,718 square feet of land at No. 50 Cliff street, Roxbury, have been sold by Patrick F. and Hilda A. Calahan to David and Annie A. Baird, who bought for occupancy. The total assessed valuation is $2,600. J. D. Bruce was the broker.

The single family frame dwelling at No. 3 Macullar street, Roxbury, has been purchased from Mary [illegible] and Alice O'Connell by John R. and Marie Leverone, who will occupy. Papers have been recorded. Joseph E. Mooney & Co. were the brokers.

Property at No. 451 Dudley street, corner of Lewis Place, Roxbury, consisting of a three-story frame house with 2,000 square feet of land, has been sold to Joseph Neustadt and another by Ellen Leavitt. The total assessment is 4,400, with $2,400 on the land.

ACTIVITY IN SOUTH BOSTON

The six-family building with 7,750 square feet of land at Nos. 819-821 East Second street, South Boston, assessed for $11,200, has been conveyed by Simon Deervus to Marc Wadel. The land is assessed for $1,200.

John P. Heffernan has sold to G. Tanashian and M. Ayvasian the frame dwelling with 1,305 square feet of land at No. 110 P street, South Boston. The total assessment is $3,900, of which $700 is on the land.

The property at Nos. 451-455 East Eighth street, consisting of a store and five tenements, assessed for a total of $5,000, has been sold by John Chmiel[illegible] Charles Majauskas and Albert Helgerman. The land is assessed for $1,500.

The above transactions were negotiated by the Lithuanian Agency.

Two frame buildings at Nos. 201-203 D street, corner of Fifth street, South Boston, taxed to Rosalie Parker, trustee, have been sold to John Wortewich. The total assessment is $6,800, of which $1,500 is on the 1,688 square feet of land.

DWELLINGS IN DORCHESTER SOLD

A three-family frame house with 1,806 square feet of land at No. 274 East Cottage street, Dorchester, has been conveyed by Anthony P. Naujokaitis to James J. Curley. Of the $5,700 total tax valuation, $1,300 is on the land.

Patrick and Abbie Joyce have taken title to a three-family frame house at No. 272 East Cottage street. There is a land area of 2,906 square feet, taxed for $1,200, of the $5,700 total tax value. Anthony P. Naujokaitis was the grantor.

The Lithuanian Agency were the brokers in the above transactions.

Papers have passed through the office of Chas. G. Clapp Co., whereby Mrs. E. A. Jordan conveys to Nora C. Callahan a dwelling, garage and about 4,000 square feet of land at No. 4 Rosedale street, Dorchester.

SALES KEEP UP DESPITE WEATHER

Despite the fact that the hot season is usually considered a dull period in the office furniture business, the Osborne Office Furniture Company reports that the demand has been very brisk for several weeks. Several large business organizations have outfitted their offices with supplies from this popular store.

Mr. Osborne attributes this unusual demand to the fact that more people are learning that the location of the store, at the corner of Pearl and High streets, makes possible the display of office furniture than though the store were located in the high-rent district. By selling at a close margin of profit, the Osborne organization is able to obtain a huge volume of sales and thus take advantage of the price concessions which manufacturers offer to carload buyers.

In this commodious store are to be found many styles of desks at a wide range of prices, as well as all the other accessories which go to make up a complete stock of office equipment.

MR. GALLAGHER and MR. SHEAN

GOOD MORNING. Have you written your Gallagher & Shean lyric yet? Good for the circulation (your circulation) and guaranteed to keep away anemia, rheumatism and other ailments.

Here's one by Vivian Mack, of No. 25 Mt. Pleasant avenue:

Oh Mr. Gallagher, Oh Mr. Gallagher!
We are living in an age of "heavy jack."
One man of whom I hear,
Makes a million bucks a year,
And he never heard of Wall street, that's a fact!
Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean!
In comparison he hasn't made a bean!
A certain few I know,
Are getting all the dough—
Bootleggers, Mr. Gallagher?
PRIZEFIGHTERS, MR. SHEAN!

Pretty good, we think. Can you do one as well? We will give an original Gallagher & Shean drawing to the best one printed in this column each week.

Address your lyrics to Gallagher & Sheen, care of the Boston American, No. 30 Sumner street, Boston, Mass.

GOING UP

Listen: Chiefs of the Onandaga Indians have entered an official protest against stills said to be in operation on the reservation.—News Item.

By L. W.

THE palefaces ever has been taught
That poor Lo was a frantic wet;
That rum was more to him than gold—
That booze would all his wampum get.
The legend in that Standing Bear
And Sitting Dog and Running Deer
And Rising Moon and Sleeping Hare
Would sell their birthright for—a beer.

Old Standing Bear, the gossips said,
Would trade his buckskin pants for drink,
And pawn the feathers from his head,
Now that was awful, don't you think?

Poor Lo is higher up today;
For hooch, the white with wampum parts;
But red men put their thirsts away
And proudly ride on water carts!

JERRY ON THE JOB

No Mystery Here

By Hoban

EVERY DAY MR. GINSBY MAKES ME GET HIM THIS SHEET SO HE CAN READ ABOUT RACE HORSES—ALL OF WHICH IS OVER MY HEAD LIKE A PARASOL.
OBON—THERE'S A THREE HORSE RACE AT THE EMPIRE TRACK TODAY
WHAT'S THAT MR. GINSBY??
THAT'S A PUZZLER.
WHAT IS THERE ABOUT A THREE HORSE RACE THAT'S SO MYSTERIOUS?
WELL—IT WOULD BE WORTH QUITE A BATCH OF MONEY IF YOU COULD GUESS HOW THOSE THREE NAGS WILL FINISH.
WHAT'S SO HARD ABOUT THAT??
ONE OF 'EM WILL BE FIRST—AND ONE OF 'EM WILL BE SECOND—AND THE LAST ONE WILL BE THIRD.

LOOK WHO COMES HIDDA, IGNATZ.
YES, THAT'S MR. BEE. A JOLLY FINE CHAP.
HELLO! MR. BEE.
HELLO AND BEE.
HELLO FOLKS
HE SEEMED TO HAVE A IMPEDIMENT ABOUT HIS FEET, IGNATZ! THEY WAS QUITE LIMP, AND LAME.
YES, HIS FEET ARE NOT WHAT THEY USED TO BE, POOR FELLOW.
MERCY ON ME, WOT AILS THEM?
CORNS, CORNS ON BUNNY FOOT.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A Chicago man sued his wife for divorce the other day on the grounds that some stranger kissed her every ten minutes.

THIS husband shouldn't have got sore. The stranger had to rest once in a while.

THE fellow was a perfect stranger, but you couldn't expect any more from a friend.

ONE kiss every ten minutes is seventy-two a day and greater love hath no man for any stranger's wife.

HE probably would have done better as he got to know her.

ANY man is bound to be a little bashful at first.

THE husband was no doubt sore because the stranger knew more about kissing than he did.

HE should have kept his mouth shut and tried to learn something.

OF course he didn't know whether his wife and this stranger were in love with each other or just having an endurance contest.

HOW did he know that this bird kissed his wife every ten minutes? He must have been an awful sap to stand there with a watch and time them.

HE says he has nobody who saw the kissing, but he can dig up a lot of ear witnesses.

HE claims they kissed so loud that you could hear them for five blocks.

HE said the first time he heard it he paid no attention because he thought it was some motorist having tire trouble.

THAT'S no compliment for his wife, saying that she kisses like a puncture.

HE doesn't know whom to mention in his divorce proceedings because his wife didn't introduce him to the stranger.

HIS wife doesn't know either, she forgot to ask the gentleman's name.

BUT you can't blame her for that, she only met him that morning.

AND no woman wants to be inquisitive the first time she meets a fellow.

SO, girls, let this be a lesson to you. Never kiss a stranger until you find out who he is.

DO NOT REVEAL YOUR MONEY-MAKING SCHEMES

If you have a good money-making scheme, do not tell about it.

Do not be so elated over the fact that you inform others and tell them how remunerative it is.

Many persons whom you consider friends may be until a matter of money or financial deals comes up. Friendship is often tested in dollars.

As soon as it is learned that you have something from which you are making money there are always those who will try to worm out of you the sort of information which will enable them to compete with you.

Many a snug little income has been lost because the possessor of it was so enthusiastic and so pleased with his success that he literally "gave it away."

In a party of men have you not noticed that the most successful are the ones who are most quiet and reticent?

They listen and learn—they do not talk and give away the weapons which can be used against them.

You can recall instances, can you not, where you have talked too much?

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

"Wall Street bankers" are often called a selfish lot. The action taken by the National Bank of Commerce in connection with the sudden stoppage of operations by Zimmerman & Forshay is going to be held bare to the public, according to persistent reports in the financial district. There are whispers that the disclosures of the detailed facts will not tend to improve the reputation of New York's downtown bankers.

According to the reports current in Wall Street, Zimmerman & Forshay's loans with the Bank of Commerce were covered by a very handsome margin. It is said that the bank not only did not lose a single dollar, but, after pulling the plug on this old established firm, found it had to hand over a very large balance of securities and cash.

The stand taken by the more selfish type of banker always that his first concern must be for his own depositors. But there is a type of banker who, while never neglectful of the interests of such own depositors, takes a somewhat broader and more statesmanlike view of his responsibilities, and he considers what effect the action will have upon the general situation and upon the public.

In my judgment, the Zimmerman & Forshay failure, which wrought havoc in the stock market and hurt a countless number of people, could and should have been averted by the banks. When the whole inside story comes out, there is certain to be an outburst of public indignation.

Durant Motors shares have latterly been sent through their paces on the curb. As high as $50 a share was named.

Yet, those who have faith in the future of Durant Motors can become stockholders at very much lower cost. "Escrow Certificates," representing shares which become marketable in the first months of next year, can be bought at $33 to $35 a share.

John Hays Hammond, chairman of the U. S. Coal Commission, whose activities are now prominently in the public eye, had had a more picturesque and exciting career than almost any other man in America. His experiences have included a death sentence. While in person in Pretoria, South Africa, waiting to be hanged, he was visited by Mark Twain. The consequences were tragic. Mark's humor got Hammond and his fellow prisoners in dutch with the Boers, who were then on the Winter of 1895-96 threatening to punish severely the prominent men connected with the ill-fated Jameson raid.

After spending two hours entertaining the prisoners with his inimitable stories, Mark Twain was interviewed by a young Boer reporter from the local newspaper. This reporter told Mark Twain there had been complaints by friends of the prisoners regarding lack of sanitation in the prison and undue hardships. The reporter added that the jailer himself had remonstrated with President Kruger, stating that the place was unfit for gentlemen, and that Kruger's reply was that this was the first suggestion he had ever heard that prisons were maintained for gentlemen.

Mark Twain, asked for his impressions, declared enthusiastically that he regarded the prison as an ideal place for a rest cure. He believed Hammond and other mining men confined there greatly needed a rest, and that, in fact, if circumstances had not compelled him to return to America immediately, he (Mark Twain) would have been delighted to take a rest cure there himself, as he found the inmates a congenial lot. He added that his only objection was that there were too many lawyers among the prisoners, and that he and lawyers had never been able to "hit it off."

As for his friend Hammond, Mark asserted the Boer reporter that he had known this American when he was a mining engineer out West and that Hammond, if cared to tell the truth, would have to admit that the Pretoria Prison compared favorably with many of the "palace" or "grand" hotels in the mining camps.

Then the humorist boarded his train for Cape Town. The interview appeared verbatim, accompanied by an editorial severely condemning the Government for its lenient treatment of these prisoners, emphasizing that they were not entitled to enjoy "all the comforts of a rest cure."

Bad as the meals and general treatment were before, they became infinitely worse.

Some of the prisoners' friends immediately erred. Mark Twain had him taken off the train, brought back to Pretoria, and sent to President Kruger to explain that everything he had said had been said in a jocular strain, as the prisoners were being subjected to very harsh treatment. Then Paul Kruger did relent a little.

The first time Mark Twain met Hammond in America after this episode, he hailed him with, "John, I feel it is up to me to blow you to a good many square meals."

Incidentally, John Hays Hammond has the price of a good many square meals. He was for years the highest paid man in America when he was principal engineer for the Guggenheims.

Week-End New York Stock Market Has a Mixed But Fair Tone in Prices

OIL GROUP AND STEELS LEAD IN ACTIVITY

Week-end New York stock market had a mixed but fair tone in prices during most of the short session. The oil group and the steels led in activity. Oils were recessional toward the close.

There were losses of 3 or more points for Pan-American "A", Phillips Petroleum and Marland Oil.

Point or more losses came in Pacific Oil, Houston Oil, Producers & Refiners, General Electric, Studebaker and U. S. Rubber.

In the late trading U. S. Steel, after selling off ¾, recovered all its loss.

New York Central was a feature, crossing par for the first time in several days.

Strength in motor accessories stocks featured trading at the opening. Stewart Warner rose 1¾ to 74¾, then dropped 2¾ from its high. This stock went on a 10 per cent. dividend basis Friday.

President E. W. Marland states that as a result of the issuance of rights to subscribe to new stock, Marland Oil has sold 140,287 additional shares, $9,262 to holders of rights and $1,398,025 to holders of bond warrants. From sale it received $3,812,415 cash, and will receive $1,398,025 additional Sept. 1. Holders of rights have the deferred part payment until then. Rights to subscribe expired July 26.

American Locomotive was strong, but yielded in the second hour. American Locomotive is booked up practically to capacity through 1923, with some business overlapping into next year. New business is slack at present, but indications are that renewed buying will be met in the late Summer.

American Locomotive is one of the few companies but had no heavy investment in war-time properties to write-off in 1919 and 1920. In fact, it took the opportunity of the war boom to turn its unprofitable plants into cash.

Low-Priced Issues in Bond Market Advance

Major bond maket for the week-end was dull. Prices were firm and in fact the entire list inclined toward. Mexican 4s rose 2 points on reports of an early statement of the work of the U. S. Commission now in Mexican City. Changes in the rail group were unimportant. In forthcoming Rapid transit refunding 5s advanced 1 point. Gains of a point each were recorded by Distillers Securities 5s and Virginia Carolina Chemical 7s with minor gains. U. S. Government bonds were steady.

Wall St. Gossip

COLORADO Fuel & Iron for quarter ended June 30 reports surplus of $498,057.91, which compares with deficit of $15,430.41 in the previous quarter.

WHITE Motors' estimates for half-year ended June 30 indicate net earnings were highest in history of company for a corresponding period.

KANSAS City Southern Railway reports June net $374,587 after expenses and taxes, against $348,525 in year ago, and for six months $2,373,582, against $1,800,780.

SHELL Union Oil Co. will earn $4 a share this year, asked for his impressions, declared enthusiastically that he regarded the prison as an ideal place for a rest cure. He believed Hammond and other mining men confined there greatly needed a rest, and that, in fact, if circumstances had not compelled him to return to America immediately, he (Mark Twain) would have been delighted to take a rest cure there himself, as he found the inmates a congenial lot. LOCAL-LAFS BIG FUN TO WRITE; TRY THEM

Dentist: "Before filling your teeth, I will have to treat them."

Pat: "Foine! Make it whiskey for the bunch!"

By Daniel F. McFadden, No. 61 Margin street, Lawrence.

Why do you call that white pig Ink?"

"Because he's always running from the pen."

By Mrs. Ella Urban, No. 450 Smithhill street, Mattapan.

"The men have struck for shorter hours."

"I always said sixty minutes was too long for an hour."

Thelma E. Pierce, No. 117 Shawmut avenue, New Bedford.

The above three jokes are awarded a dollar each for daily prizes.

In addition, each week, the Boston American selects fifteen of these jokes, epigrams, niffies and gags and they are reproduced in a motion picture and shown in various theatres of Greater Boston. A total of $22 in prizes is awarded the authors of the jokes used on the screen, beginning with a first prize of $5 and tapering down to twelve dollar prizes.

The jokes used in the film are not being printed in this issue.

The film is being booked by the following theatres:

Gordon Circuit Houses—Washington St. Olympia, Scollay Sq. Olympia, Central Sq., Cambridge; Capitol, Allston; Olympia, Lynn, Mass.; Strand, Dorchester, Mass.; Codman Sq., Dorchester; Olympia, Chelsea, Mass.; Harvard, No. Cambridge, Mass.

Send your Local Lafs to the Local Laf Editor, Boston American, No. 59 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

ASK MR FIXIT

Dear Mr. Fix-It—I saw my question in the Boston American answered by you and am very thankful to you for the information furnished. Now can you advise me what make of a valve is best to purchase. Would you prefer the sight to the front? Wondering you may mention, I do not want you to think there is any obligation on your part at all. I do not know myself and am seeking advice. Thanking you again, I am, R. C. W.

Sanford, Me.

If would be unethical for a newspaper to recommend any particular make of head. As I said last Saturday there is a new fangled overhead valve attachment for Fords which is said to be very good. The sights are also extensively used and except for the extra valves to make more noise are probably fine.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—I have a 1921 Dorsey sedan which has been run about 10,000 miles. The shackles seem to be quite noisy and there is a side play to the body in going around corners. What do you advise? E. L. Arlington.

Take up on your shackle bolts. You will be surprised to find you can take up quite a bit on each one. This will make the car ride easier, stop the noise to a certain extent and probably help that other trouble.

Dear Mr. Fix-It—What is your opinion on four-wheel brakes? We have had a friendly discussion as to their merits. It claims that they will prevent skidding. It claims that if both wheels on one side lock they will slow a car to a skid more. Which is right? J. W. H.

Boston.

We would prefer not to express our opinion on this subject as four-wheel brakes are not being tried out in this country quite extensively. However, it stands to reason that the right on your hypothetical case but the makers claim that it is impossible for the front-wheel brakes to lock.

NEW OLDFIELD TIRE PRICES POPULAR

In speaking of the recent cut in tire prices, W. H. Harris, original distributor for Oldfield tires, says:

"The public is just as anxious for a real bargain today as it was before the war. Automobile owners are looking for a chance to save money on upkeep and this has been proven since our last announcement.

"Business showed a decided increase and many new accounts have been opened since we announced our Oldfield prices. Oldfield tires have made a name for themselves and the public is realising their value."

DUNBAR-SANDERS CHANGES FIRM NAME

One of the landmarks on Automobile Row has disappeared in the discontinuing of the firm name of Dunbar, Sanders, Inc. The Oakland distributors have long felt the name of the Boston retail connection should be more closely associated with the name "Oakland," and with the consent of the Commissioner of Corporations decided to adopt the name Boston Oakland Company, Inc.

The change has been no change made in the personnel of Dunbar, Sanders, Inc. It retains the same location at No. 655 Beacon street.

SEVERAL FARM SALES REPORTED

E. A. Strout sold the 100-acre farm at Millwaukee, Wis., for Alfred H. Christian to Frank Pella of Bedford, Mass., 100 acres at South Royalton, Vt., for Geo. H. Clark to Irving C. Butter of Chelsea, Mass.; 75 acres owned by Wm. J. Durant of Pierce Bridge, N. H., sold to Sam. and Mary Rosan Richey of Lynn, Mass.

BUCKLEY REPORTS DEMAND FOR HOUSES

Buckley & Co. of No. 325 Belgrade avenue, Roslindale, one of the pioneer real estate firms, reports a big demand for dwellings in West Roxbindale and Roslindale. The present supply of new homes is not sufficient to meet the demand of the community according to the broker. Mr. Buckley started in the real estate business in Roslindale in 1908.

APARTMENT AND STORE BUILDING

Cruff & Byrne were the brokers in the sale of the brick block containing four stores and ten apartments, Nos. 292 to 302 Roxbury street, near Columbus avenue, together with a 4,974 square feet of land, all taxed for $26,500. Final papers have gone to record. Harold Greenfield is taking title from Mabel A. Chandler.

ELCHO CIGAR ADS WIN UNION PRAISE

Boston Central Labor Union has notified Henry B. Fitzgerald, manufacturer of the Elcho cigar, that the union has adopted a resolution praising the Elcho policy of advertising that the Elcho is union made.

DEATH TAKES CRUSADER FOR PURE FOOD

Philadelphia, Pa., July 21.—Harry P. Cassidy, known throughout the East as a pure food agent, was buried in Cathedral Cemetery. He had been in ill health for five or six years and for the last two years lived in seclusion in Montgomery County.

Harry P. Cassidy

Cassidy sent scores of food law violators to jail and had fines levied on hundreds. He crusaded particularly against the sale of bad eggs and against the use of coal tar products in foodstuffs.

He was appointed a special agent of the state dairy and food commission in 1903, and continued his activities in that position until 1912, when he was removed from office through political influence.

Cassidy soon afterward became the pure food expert on a New York paper. Later he had a similar post on the Boston American. His work was the subject of many magazine articles and his methods were adopted by agents all over the country.

CANADIAN TOURS ATTRACT MANY

Those of us who are fortunate enough to escape the daily grind for even two weeks out of the year are naturally desirous of leaving the familiar haunts and faces for all that is new and different.

Montreal, Quebec and Niagara Falls offer the vacationist unlimited change of scene and a wonderfully economical vacation.

Colonial Tourist Company of Boston have a variety of tours and trips to this Wonderland both by rail, auto and steamer. Their eighty-page travel book, "Big and Little Journeys," will tell you all about it and will be sent to you gladly given to any one really interested, at their offices, No. 331 Washington street, Boston.
